ROOSEVELT NOW HAS 42 MORE THAN TAFT, SAYS SENATOR DIXON

BULLETINS.

CHICAGO, June 17.—Oklahoma delegates to the National Republican Convention laid the foundation for a Roosevelt bolt when they caucused today. The delegates refused to permit two from the third district, pledged to President Taft, and seated by the National Committee, to sit in their places were seated the Roosevelt delegates from the third district denied seats by the National Committee.

CHICAGO, June 17.—The Massachusetts delegation, following separate meetings of the Taft and Roosevelt eighteen, was deadlocked in joint session on a choice of national committeeman and member of the credentials committee. The Roosevelt leaders, under Arthur Dehon Hill, strove to prevent the re-election of Senator Crane to the committee. Baxter was the choice of the Roosevelt men for the credentials committee. Cushing the choice of the Taft men.

CHICAGO, June 17.—The Louisiana delegation in caucus decided this afternoon to vote as a unit for the renomination of President Taft and for Elihu Root as temporary chairman.

CHICAGO, June 17.—Governor John A. Meade of Vermont announced his candidacy for the Vice-Presidency at nomination.

CHICAGO, June 17.—Senator Dixon, campaign manager for Colonel Roosevelt, announced this afternoon that thirteen more Taft delegates had "flopped" to the ex-President. He stated that nine were from South Carolina and four from Georgia, making a total of nine who had deserted the President in the latter State.

"We have broken into every Southern State, and will have a majority of at least forty-two votes in the convention when it comes to nominating a candidate for President," said Dixon. "We will have more than that in organizing the convention."

NINE HURT IN 7 CAR WRECKS

Nine men were injured, several severely, and scores of passengers were shaken up in five street car accidents today. In practically every case the car was operated by a green motorman.

The most serious accident occurred in Dorchester, when four men were knocked unconscious and suffered laceration of the face and head, when two cars came together in a rear end collision on Washington street, near Codman square.

The Injured.

The more seriously injured in Dorchester are:

ERNEST HAYWARD of Aspinwall road, Dorchester.

HENRY KLEUBER, twenty-six, of No. 26 Chipman street, Dorchester.

THOMAS McINERNEY, No. 29 Wales avenue, Dorchester.

CLARK A. HURLBURT of No. 11 Chipman street, Dorchester.

The men injured at the collision at the corner of Washington and Roselyn streets,

STRANGE TITANIC RESCUE MESSAGE

One of the piled boats connected with the harbor defences, when shifts of Boston Light today, picked up a bottle containing the following mysterious message:

Tom Davidson and William Daizell, Belfast.

A message to Ireland.——who were picked up at the ——— from the wreck of the Titanic. We are safe and sound. Please give this to our friends in Ireland.

Captain George P. Hawes, Jr., in command of the boat, turned the bottle over to Lieutenant William C. Kemble of the Ninth Mine Company at Fort Warren.

BROTHER KILLS GIRL AND SELF

Raphael Capudalupo, aged twenty-eight, today shot and killed his sixteen-year-old sister, Nellie, through the temple and killed himself, in their tenement on the fifth landing at No. 126 Prince street, North End. The girl died in the Relief Hospital and Capudalupo's body is at the morgue.

Nellie's refusal to give up her friendship for a young Italian admirer, who called today to bid her and her sister Loretta to the Christopher celebration, was the cause of the shooting.

The police say there came very near being a duel in the stuffy little bedroom where the girl was decoyed and shot, after a quarrel in the kitchen.

She had tried to defend herself with a 22-calibre revolver which was found a few inches from her hand on the floor when the police arrived. All of the chambers were filled, showing that her brother had opened fire upon her too soon for him to use her weapon.

The infuriated brother fired three shots. The first is thought to have pierced the sister's temple, the second lodged in the ceiling and the third, in his own brain, brought instant death.

The other sister, Loretta, aged nineteen, rushed from the kitchen, where she was crocheting, upon hearing the first shot and called to the other tenants for help. She was hysterical when they reached her. Later she told her story to the police.

She told how Raphael had left Italy a father to them both and how he had sent enough money for them to come from Sicily six months ago. Nellie and Loretta worked in a candy factory, and Raphael, who had been in this country fifteen years, worked in another factory.

Shortly after Nellie Capudalupo reached the country she made the acquaintance of the youth whose visit today caused the tragedy. The police are hunting for him to get further insight into the affair.

Hottest Yet; Mercury Hit 90 at 2 O'Clock

Big Exodus to the Beaches. Common Was Crowded, and General Humidity Arrived in Boston.

Today was the hottest of the Summer so far. The mercury touched 90 at 2 p. m., which was highest point reached during the day. It climbed for a few minutes after 2, almost reached 91 and then began to drop. At 4 p. m. the thermometer on the Common showed 88.

The weather was particularly oppressive because the humidity was high. The upward climb of the thermometer began at 2 a. m. when the figures read 68. From that hour until early afternoon the climb was gradual.

The hot weather was noticeable in the crowds which pointed for the beaches early this afternoon. Despite the street car strike, the trolleys to Revere Beach which left Scollay square were crowded with those who came in from the suburbs on the Elevated cars.

Boston Common had a real holiday crowd. Every bench was occupied, and much disappointment was manifest when it was learned that there would be no band concert. The concerts will not begin until next Sunday, when the new Parkman Memorial bandstand will be dedicated.

THIS WILL CHEER YOU UP: SNOWING HARD IN COLORADO

DENVER, Col., June 17.—One of the heaviest June snow storms in history of the State has been raging since midnight in the mountain sections, doing much damage to trees, shrubbery, telephone and telegraph wires, and interfering with railway traffic. The snow is melting rapidly and great apprehension is felt as every river and creek is already at the flood stage. The heaviest fall will be at Breckenridge, where the precipitation from midnight to noon amounted to 24 inches.

VOLCANO WIPED OUT WHOLE VILLAGES

CORDOVA, Alaska, June 17.—A relief tug report from Karluk that there was no sign of life on the mainland this side of Shelikof Strait in the vicinity of the mountain, virtually confirms the fears that the mainland villages, with a population estimated at 200, perished in the disaster.

START BIG CONVENTION FIGHT ON 1ST ROLL CALL

Dixon definitely announced that Senator Borah of Idaho will be the Roosevelt candidate for temporary chairman, and said that the fight in the convention will begin "just after the prayer."

By a vote of eighteen to two, the Oklahoma delegation today refused to adopt a resolution bidding the entire delegation to stand behind any person selected by the convention. This was the first attempt by the Taft forces to bind the delegates against a bolt by using the famous Conkling resolution of 1880, when President Grant sought a third term nomination.

"We'll Bust Them in Two."

"We will bust them in two," cried Theodore Roosevelt today when his lieutenants and delegates were presented to him at a reception in the Elizabethan room at the Congress Hotel.

Late in the morning delegates and alternates filed in for a conference with Roosevelt. Although it was positively stated that no one except delegates and alternates would be admitted, some outsiders were allowed to go into the room. When the Colonel dashed into the room behind a flying wedge of guards, it was packed to suffocation.

"Don't let any one else in," shouted the colonel, "not another man. I want to cast those men."

Roosevelt stood at the Pearock alley entrance. Beads of perspiration were on his forehead.

"Let 'em come," he shouted into the ear of Frank Knox, the doortender. "I'm ready."

R. B. McCormick was on the first men in line. He presented the facts from Illinois.

"Colonel, we are fifty for you on every proposition," he said. "I just left the meeting of the Illinois delegation and I can insure you of that fact."

"That's the Spirit."

"Fine, fine," exploded the colonel, shaking McCormick's hand like a pump handle. "Believe me, Mr. McCormick, we will bust them in two."

Between McCormick and Governor Deneen in line were several of the Illinois delegation. These men shook the colonel's hand cordially.

"Fine," he kept exclaiming so loudly that he could be plainly heard all over the big room, now jammed to its limit.

"Bang!" went a couple of flashlights within two feet of where the ex-President stood.

"Whoopee!" he exclaimed. "Let 'er go! That's the spirit!"

The West Virginia delegation came next in line.

"We're for Teddy, ever ready, West Virginia," roared the men in line. A smile showed all of the Colonel's front teeth.

"Knock 'em over the ropes, knock 'em out," he shouted. "Great pleasure to see you gentlemen, and I want you to know that we've got 'em going."

The next few men in line were friends.

"By George, by George," cried Roosevelt as he shook hands with several men whom he knew. "I'm delighted to shake hands with you gentlemen today. That is fine——"

North Carolina came next in line. "We are for Teddy, you bet" cried the leader in the line.

"We Cannot Lose."

"North Carolina is all right," replied the ex-President.

"You gentlemen are going to stick to me I know. We cannot lose."

At this point the crushing crowd outside forced a side door to the room. "Here, here," cried Colonel Roosevelt, "don't let another man in. I cannot shake any more hands."

He broke the line before him and rushed across the room. "Shut that door," he commanded, and the door was shut.

Roosevelt stepped back into the line. He shook hands with more than five hundred, and there were thousands more wearing badges of one sort of another who tried to get in. The Oklahoma delegation made considerable noise.

"Oh, you Teddy!" shouted the first delegate as he shook hands.

"All right, by George!" exploded the ex-President. "Oklahoma is the State and we'll carry it in the Fall. Things are going fine gentlemen, and we'll knock these old gentlemen over the ropes."

Next came Texas. Colonel Cecil Lyon, who was flattened out by the Taft steam roller in the line of the Lone Star State.

"We'll turn the State over to you," said Lyon.

"Ah, the Lone Star State," he replied. "I'm for you, gentlemen strong."

Next came the Maryland men. "We are for you strong," cried the leader of this delegation.

"Will you be for me on temporary chairman?" asked the Colonel.

"You bet we will," was the reply.

"That's the way," he cried, "knock them over the ropes, boys!"

Meets Women Delegates.

Then were presented the two women delegates from California, the only women who will have seats in the convention.

"I'm glad to see you, ladies," saluted the colonel. "I am strong for women suffrage and it is a pleasure to see so much progress."

A crowd of the strongest lunged California cried: "Teddy! Teddy!.. We are ready, ready! Kill 'em alive!"

"Teddy we are ready, ever ready to go 'em! California!"

The notes were deafening, but the Colonel seemed in his element.

"Just hear that California," he cried. "Isn't it just fine? That's the way I know they will knock those other gentlemen through the ropes."

When the last hand had been shaken three policemen, together with the private detectives of the hotel, escorted the Colonel and escorted him back to his suite, followed by a throng.

The crush was so great that tables and chairs were smashed.

Within a few minutes the colonel went back in his room in the Presidential suite. No fast did he more that the crowd was bewildered and unable to follow him.

The Pennsylvania delegation today elected William Flinn to succeed Senator Penrose as National Committeeman.

By agreeing to vote as a unit the Taft majority of the Alabama delegation nullified the votes of the two Roosevelt members of their contingent at a meeting at the Sherman House today.

Charges of attempted bribery of Southern negro delegates were made by A. W. Adams of Jackson, Tenn., a Taft negro delegate of the Eighth Tennessee District today. He said he had been approached three times by a Pennsylvania negro and

With not more than ten votes hanging between the rival houses of William Howard Taft and Theodore Roosevelt, according to impartial experts, both camps today fought fast and furious with the one object of nothing secure the majority of the first rollcall of the convention.

On one hand, the Taft leaders sought to hold what they had; on the other hand, the Roosevelt crowd strenuously endeavored to gain strength from the Taft list and add it to their own. It is the double force of addition and substraction that brings the margin of difference down to ten votes. Obviously what one gains the other loses.

From the Roosevelt headquarters at the opening of the day's work came the confident assurance that the opposing line would be broken. From the Taft headquarters came equally positive information that the Tafters were going to the convention with twenty majority.

5 Fair Convention Delegates Represent Women of the West

TWO OF G. O. P. WOMEN DELEGATES AT CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, June 17.—There will be five women delegates in the Republican National Convention in Chicago. When there are more suffrage States perhaps there will be many delegates like Mrs. R. R. Williams of Oregon, shown in this snapshot for the AMERICAN taken at Chicago. Four women were granted seats at the convention on Friday. Two of these delegates will be from California and two from other Western States. Mrs. Charles D. Blutney of San Jose, one of the two California delegates, is considered one of the most aggressive Republicans of the Far West. This is not the first time that there have been women delegates at a Republican national convention. The first was seated at the Minneapolis convention in 1892 and came from Wyoming.

'BULLY! KEEP IT UP!' CRIES KEYES; FUN AS ROOSEVELT'S DOUBLE

CHICAGO, June 17.—John M. Keyes, the Roosevelt double, continues to have great fun. Crowds cheer him on the street as Roosevelt, fond mothers pass babies over heads for Keyes to kiss. Today, as Keyes was being photographed by a line of newspaper camera men, a New Yorker grasped his hand and remarked:

"I was born in New York just three blocks from you, and we'll have you in the White House again."

"Bully! Keep it up!" replied Keyes. The crowd roared.

NEGROES HOLD THE BALANCE

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE.

CHICAGO, June 17.—The Republican party, whose proudest boast that it freed negroes in 1863, depends for its political life in 1912 on the enslavement of the sixty-eight members of the colored race who hold seats as delegates to its national convention.

Divested of all pretence and reduced to a plain statement of fact, that is the situation today. What is going on in the corridors and in the secret chambers of the Congress Hotel is not a battle of principle, not a fight of progress against reaction, but a sordid struggle for the possession of the votes of sixty-eight negro delegates.

The biggest questions are involved, but their settlement, in the estimation of the men who really know, hangs on the returns that will be made by the purchasing agents at the last minute.

There is still a mighty pretension that the giants of the Republican leadership are engaged in a death struggle. There is still a prospect that the result of this fight may split the party far asunder that it can never be reunited.

Nobody denies the possibility that Tuesdays convention will be turned into a riot and that heads will be broken and eyes blackened before it is all over. This the Roosevelt men are openly threatening and the Taft men are secretly preparing for.

But in the meantime the barter and trade goes busily on, and if one or the other side gains sufficient strength to prevent a physical conflict, it will be because one side or the other has done the shrewdest marketing.

On the eve of the first battle the outcome of this curious war of enmities that has set the Grand Old Party by the ears is as much in doubt as it was the day Illinois went for Roosevelt at the primaries

The Roosevelt list has been enriched by ten dusky delegates and Tim Woodruff of Brooklyn.

GEMS OF THOUGHT FROM CONVENTION

WILLIAM J. BRYAN:

The X or unknown quantity in the Republican situation is the colored vote from the South. It is the weakness of the Taft cause. It is a weakness not only because it does not represent a voting strength proportionate to its influence in the convention, but a weakness also because it cannot be depended upon to stand the test.

UNITED STATES SENATOR ROOT:

I do not find anyone panic-stricken and I believe President Taft has an abundance of delegates to nominate him if they stick.

GENERAL JAMES S. CLARKSON:

You and I will have witnessed the last Republican convention when this one finally adjourns. Presidential candidates will hereafter be nominated directly at primaries.

GEORGE W. PERKINS:

It is true that we lack a majority of the convention. So does Mr. Taft. A batch of thirty votes either way will control and we intend to get them.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT:

Crane has been repudiated in his own State. He is out of tread with the progressive step of the day. He'll find out Tuesday noon that while a pussy foot goes all right on the carpet of a committee room, it's a different proposition fighting determined men when real fighting is on.

JAMES J. MONTAGUE:

There was much apprehension among the Taft men today when they learned that the chairs in the convention hall had not been fastened to the floor.

BAY STATE MEN BEGIN TO WAVER

By JAMES E. DONOGHUE.

CHICAGO, June 17.—Threatened defections from Taft to Roosevelt of some Massachusetts delegates sent Senator Crane hot foot to the auditorium just before noon today to save for Taft the even eighteen delegates the State has against eighteen for Roosevelt.

The Massachusetts delegates are in session at the rodiucium for the election of a National committeeman and convention representatives. Senator Crane is smoothly pleading with the Taft delegates to be firm and not to be stampeded tomorrow by any motion made in the direction for Roosevelt. There are Taft wavrers on the Massachusetts delegation and Senator Crane knows it.

"Joe" Peterson of Salem, Republican war horse and Taft delegate, sounded the sense of the peculiar delegation that Massachusetts has sent to Chicago, when he said today.

"I'll vote for Taft, but when it comes to a break, I can see a whole lot of the Taft delegates going to somebody else. Lots of them, myself included, just want on as Taft delegates as a favor to Murray Crane and Governor Bates and we have little use directly for Taft."

Delegates from Essex, Middlesex and the West of Massachusetts shook their heads dismally over Taft prospects of nomination, or for even holding his own with the delegation from Massachusetts. Senator Crane, with his steam roller work in the National Committee accomplished, is oiling up the old machine for serious business.

Massachusetts is in the lime light, because Crane and Samuel J. Elder are the two men in the Nation to be watched here in Chicago.

Their immunity from getting ruffled or rattled amazes the lusty and noisy Roosevelt men from the West. Both Crane and Elder are pointed out in the hotel corridors as the brains and force of the Taft campaign. McKinley is rated as a Taft factor when the two tip-toeing leaders from Massachusetts are involved.

Colonel Raps Crane.

Colonel Roosevelt bright and early today renewed his castigations of Uncle Murray Crane.

"He has been repudiated in his own State," the Colonel said with much emphasis.

"He is out of tread with the progressive step of the day. He couldn't be returned as Senator from Massachusetts, because the real Republicans of Massachusetts have no further use for him and his kind. He worked the steam roller in the National Committee and he's for the roller operations tomorrow. He'll find out Tuesday noon, though, that while a pussy-foot goes all right on the carpet of a committee room, where things are all smoothed one way, it's a different proposition fighting determined, earnest men when real fighting is on."

Hear the Good News.

Good news for the Roosevelt eighteen from Massachusetts was that a majority of Georgia and Mississippi delegates had swung to Roosevelt and that "Tim" Woodruff of New York had quit Taft for the here of San Juan and Africa.

With Senator Crane admitting that Taft has not more than twenty votes over the required 540 to make him the nominee, a contest on the eight delegates-at-large from Massachusetts is assured. General Edgar R. Champlin, who headed the Taft campaign in Massachusetts is here in Chicago. He has a suit ready with him, filed with documents, and he has three live witnesses. Two other witnesses are being rushed on to Chicago.

The Massachusetts contest aims at the throwing out of the eight Roosevelt delegates at-large. The National Committee has closed its contests, giving Roosevelt a gain by nineteen out of over 250 contested delegates, so this new contest must be decided by the convention itself. Other contests passed on by the National Committee may be renewed before the convention, but the threatened Massachusetts contest is new.

ROOSEVELT GETS TAFT DESERTERS

By ALFRED HENRY LEWIS.

CHICAGO June 17.—Great men are meeting; matters of moment are afoot. Little Tim Woodruff of Brooklyn, angel child of Republican politics, paid Roosevelt a Sabbath visit. He did not have to rough his way in; Roosevelt received him with both hands outstretched; Little Tim had come to say that he and his New York vote were and would continue to be most bitterly for Roosevelt. The steam-roller outrages, he declared, practiced by the Taft men, and in particular the fashion in which they crushed and flattened out Lyons of Texas and his bunch of Lone Star innocents had revolted him. Battle, he could stand; slaughter, he might abide; but to go about mutilating the dead as with a steam-roller marmalukes had done in the Texas instances was too much. Little Tim was for Roosevelt from now on, and wanted all the world—and Roosevelt—to know it.

Roosevelt was deeply affected. He was so deeply affected that he sent for Van Valkenburg of Philadelphia, who listened, while Little Tim again took the oath of Roosevelt allegiance.

Van is now going about with Little Tim in his social-political claw, and there is every reason to think that the little man of many and resounding waistcoats will answer "Roosevelt" when the convention roll is called.

Little Tim came not alone. There were others. The currents of affairs have been getting Rooseveltward. There are five delegates from Georgia who but yesterday were for Taft are now for Roosevelt. These are colored men. My information is that this group of five are now on their railroad way to Chicago.

Letters from Prominent Druggists addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

S. J. Briggs & Co., of Providence, R. I., say: "We have sold Fletcher's Castoria in our three stores for the past twenty years and consider it one of the best preparations on the market."

R. W. Stucky, of Indianapolis, Ind., says: "To say that we have recommended and sold your Castoria for years is the best endorsement we can possibly give any preparation. It is surely full of merit and worthy of recommendation."

Henry R. Gray, of Montreal, Que., says: "I would say that your Castoria for children is in large demand and that it gives general satisfaction. No being a secret nostrum many medical men order it when circumstances indicate the use of such a preparation."

W. G. Marshall, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "We have found your Castoria to be not only one of the best sellers in the medicine market, but a preparation that gives almost universal satisfaction; in fact we cannot recall having had a single complaint from any of our customers who have used it."

Owens & Minor Drug Co., of Richmond, Va., says: "It is with pleasure that we lend our endorsement to Castoria, a preparation of proven merit. During our long experience in the drug business we have had abundant occasion to note the popularity of the genuine Fletcher's Castoria, which we unhesitatingly recommend."

Brannen & Anthony of Atlanta, Ga., say: "We doubt if we were called upon to state positively what medicine we had sold for the greatest length of time, the greatest number of bottles sold, and the most satisfactory preparation to us and also to the customer, we feel that we could safely and conscientiously say Fletcher's Castoria."

Seekonk Triplets Weigh 17 Pounds

Stork Brings Three Little Girls; Greeted by Four Other Children in Family.

SEEKONK, June 17.—The stork was generous to Mr. and Mrs. John Andrews of this town, leaving seventeen pounds of baby, in three separate parcels before he departed. Today they are sleeping quietly with the four other children, the oldest of whom is only five years.

It was a heavy load for the stork, but he burden was greeted joyously and the lusty girls were christened Mary, Annie and Angeline.

Mary weighed six pounds flat, and Annie was a trifle under that figure. Angeline, the last of the trio to see the light of day, tipped the scales at five pounds.

Four other bright-eyed and healthy children eagerly scanned the sky for a sight of the stork, waiting to see it depart after leaving the three sisters. Mr. and Mrs. Andrews' family now consists of seven.

Ethel Roosevelt One of Attendants at King's Chapel Wedding of Beacon Street Belle.

Quaint old King's Chapel was the scene today at noon of the most brilliant wedding of the season when pretty Margaret Richardson became the bride of Uncle Hall Roosevelt of New York, favorite nephew of ex-President Roosevelt and one of the best known "Gold Coasters" at Harvard.

The church was beautifully decorated and made a fitting setting for the throngs of exquisitely gowned fashionables who gathered to witness the ceremony.

The bride, in a clinging gown of white satin, over which fell a long lace veil, was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her distinguished father, Dr. Maurice H. Richardson of Beacon street.

The bride's group of handsome attendants, including many of her sister debutantes in their white satin gowns over which were worn long carlse chiffon coats and hats of tuscan straw trimmed with cerise, made an interesting foil for the white robed bride. The Rev. Howard N. Brown performed the ceremony.

Included in the list of attendants were Miss Ethel Roosevelt, a cousin of the bridegroom; Miss Katherine Farrington of Minneapolis, who spends much of her time in Boston; Miss Eleanor Benson of Salem, Miss Margaret Ramsey of Wellesley Hills and the Misses Ruth Harrington, Gertrude Hunnewell, Francis Nichols and Rose Battontall.

The ushers were Lincoln MacVeagh of New York and Charles Taussig of St. Louis, classmates; Peter Cooper Bryce and Vanderbilt Webb of New York, Richard Baker of New Haven, Maurice Freeman Smith of Washington and Roland Brown Batchelder of Salem, also three older brothers of the bride, Dr. Edward P. Richardson, M. H. Richardson, Jr., and Henry Richardson. A reception at the Richardson home in Beacon street followed the ceremony.

HARVARD PHI BETA MEETING

Five hundred members of Harvard Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa gathered at Harvard today and held a business session. These officers were elected: Francis Joseph Swanse, president; L. B. Briggs, vice-president; W. C. Lowe, secretary; Richard H. Dana, treasurer. Ambassador Jusserand of France, John J. Chapman of New York, Dr. Reginald Fits, D. G. Field and Professor E. Washaugh were elected honorary members.

Following the business session the chapter marched, single file, to Memorial Hall, Sanders Theatre, where literary exercises were held. Ambassador Jusserand gave the oration of the day, a historical sketch of the life of Rochambeau, in charge of the French forces at Yorktown. John J. Chapman read a poem. Dinner followed at the Harvard Union.

Famous Astor Plate Is First Mrs. Astor's

NEW YORK, June 17.—When the inheritance tax appraisers begin soon their inventory of the Astor mansion and its contents, they will not find the famous Astor plate—the wonderful dining set of silver that for twenty years during the married life of Colonel Astor and his first wife was the admiration of society.

This plate, famed all over the country, and marked with the initials "J. J. A." and "A. W. A." was taken from this country as late as last January, four months after the marriage of Colonel Astor to Miss Madeline Force. A large case said to contain fourteen cubic feet of silver plate, was shipped to England at that time. The silver is now in the possession of the first wife, Ava Willing Astor.

It was shortly after the Astors agreed to separate the wife served notice on her husband she intended to take away all that belonged to her. And she followed this with an accounting and inventory which is said to have surprised the late colonel.

But he let Mrs. Astor have the articles she claimed.

COMMENCEMENT OPENS AT YALE

NEW HAVEN, Ct., June 17.—Yale's commencement week festivities were ushered in today. The first event on today's program was the meeting of the alumni advisory board. At 10 o'clock the annual class day exercises of the Sheffield Scientific School were held on the Sheffield square. The class oration was read by George Thompson, Jr., of Fort Worth, Tex., the history by Richard S. Platt of Brooklyn and the prophecy by Joseph B. Cary of New York.

EVERY SENIOR 'CO-ED' A PHI BETA KAPPA

MIDDLETOWN, Ct., June 17.—To the deep chagrin of the men students at Wesleyan University, every young woman in the graduating class this year, which will be one of the last classes of women to receive diplomas from the university, has been elected for high scholarship to the honorary society of Phi Beta Kappa.

CLASS DAY HELD BY RADCLIFFE SENIORS

Class exercises were held by the seniors at Radcliffe College today, followed by the junior-senior luncheon at noon. The exercises were held in Agassiz House, opening with the singing of the class song, composed by Miss Katherine Shorisll of Chicago and Miss Dorothy B. Brewer of Jamaica Plain. Miss Esther C. Sedgwinger, class historian, read the history.

OPEN OLD WINE ON 30TH ANNIVERSARY

A bottle of old wine, set aside thirty years ago and opened five years ago, to be reopened tonight at a dinner at Young's Hotel in memory of Z. H. Thomas, Jr., of Cambridge, who up to the time of his death was a prominent Mason. On June 17, 1882, Mr. Thomas received his fifth birthday and the twentieth anniversary of his being a Mason. The old wine was set aside to be opened after twenty-five years. On June 17, 1907, this was opened, and half of it was drunk by his friends in a toast. The bottle was then sealed.

CHILDREN TO SING FOR FR. MAHONEY

A chorus of 300 children, led by Miss Margaret Conroy, church organist, will welcome the Rev. Timothy J. Mahoney, pastor of St. Monica's Church, at the reception to be given him this evening in St. Augustine's Hall, E street, South Boston, in honor of his silver anniversary. A banquet will follow the literary program. Daniel J. Chapman will preside. The speakers will be Congressman James M. Curley, William J. Coughlan of Abington, Thomas A. Mullen and Mgr. O'Callaghan.

DE FERRARI SUIT IS HALTED AGAIN

Scores of women crowded the Suffolk County Divorce Court today to hear the libel of Joseph De Ferrari, a wealthy Back Bay fruit dealer, who sued his wife, Justina De Ferrari, alleging unfaithfulness. At the last moment De Ferrari changed his counsel. The new attorney was not prepared to go on with the suit and Judge Jenney dismissed the libel without prejudice. The De Ferraris have been fighting for the custody of their six-year-old son, John.

CARDINAL FARLEY HITS DIVORCE EVIL

NEW YORK, June 17.—Think of 100,000 divorces in this country," said Cardinal Farley in an address at Mt. Manresa, the Jesuit House of Retreat. "That number is nearly seven times as many as are recorded in the whole of Europe. It is time to wake up and fight this demon. That evil and Socialism need to be combatted."

Fighting for Princess Lead Fair Candidates All Busy

MAE E. LYNCH.

Vote Early and Often

Motto of Those Who Are Backing Their Favorites for Prizes in the Great Race for New England's Fair Maids.

Polls Close Next Tuesday for Next Sunday's Vote List; Why Not Be a Leader in the Standing When Tabulation Is Given Then?

By THE PRINCESS EDITOR.

"When you see the whites of their eyes, shoot!"

One Hundred and thirty-seven years ago today the Colonists knew what they wanted and they started out to get it.

And the glorious U. S. A. of today is proof sufficient that they got what they started out for.

And so it is with you, Princess Candidates. The Contest Editor does not for a minute suggest that you "shoot" everyone you meet with a copy of the AMERICAN in their possession. That process would practically depopulate New England, but he does suggest and INSISTS that the only way to get elected to any office, whether it be President or Princess, is to ask the public for their votes.

Those who do this early enough and often enough will be the winners of the glorious "Princess" prizes in three weeks more.

A pretty good, every-day, working motto for the average American boy or girl is "When you start out after anything, GET IT!"

You will meet with some disappointments, of course, everyone does some time in life, but the victories for the "Get It" club run into mighty high averages.

It takes votes to elect a girl "New England's Princess." You have started to get those votes. Now, girls, do more than just start. GET THEM! If YOU don't, your friend around the next corner will. All you have to do is ask for them. They are of value only to you who are in the "Princess" competition.

Just imbue your campaign with some of the spirit, energy and ambition of the farmers of Bunker Hill and prove to your own satisfaction that you are a worthy descendant of those heroic fighters.

The polls close next Friday, June 21st, at 11 a. m., for next Sunday's vote list. A position among the leaders in this list means the support of hundreds that you would not otherwise get.

So why not be a leader next Sunday?

A little ACTIVE work before next Friday will do it for you.

If your photograph has not yet been sent in do so at once if you wish to have it printed with the page of photographs which will appear next Sunday.

On to victory! Ask EVERYONE for their votes.

Miss Mae Lynch of 27 Quincy street, Roxbury, is one of the "Princess" candidates who has laid the groundwork for an extensive vote-getting campaign. Her Roxbury friends say they are "fighting hard" for her election and expect to hand her the first prize winner.

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

The camera as an aid in choosing fittings for motor cars has been called into successful use at the Pierce-Arrow plant at Buffalo. It was necessary to make a choice between several kinds of headlamps and road tests at night were not considered infallible in result, because of the possibility of differing weather conditions. So the camera was called upon.

On the night of the camera test a large screen was placed against a blank wall and the car from which the test was made was stationed some little distance away, facing the screen. The camera was placed in a fixed position. As each set of headlights was fixed to the supports on the car and the lights switched on, two photographs were made—one of the screen alone to show the projection of the lamps' rays, and the other of the ground between the lamp and the screen to illustrate the diffusion.

All the exposures were made under exactly the same conditions, the plates were all developed together and the prints made together. In this manner the resulting photographic prints gave an accurate idea of the comparative lighting power of the various lamps tried out.

To date ten entries have been made for the Tacoma (Wash.) road race to be held July 5 and 6 under the auspices of the Tacoma Automobile Club and Tacoma Carnival Association. Last week Hughie Hughes was entered with the 500-mile race Mercer, and yesterday a second car of the same make was nominated. The driver for this mount has not been definitely selected.

H. W. Doherty, chairman of the Automobile Committee wires in eastern representatives from Tacoma to the effect that enthusiasm in the races is running high in that city and that there will be a number of Pacific Coast entries. They will endeavor to keep the prices in the four events from going East.

The Whitten-Gilmore Company announces the arrival of its first 1913 Chalmers "30" touring car. The car is now on exhibition at the salesrooms of the company and demonstrations may be obtained at any time. In the new car there are many changes and refinements, yet it is in every way similar to the Chalmers "36" which the company put out for the first time in 1912.

The new Chalmers "30" is equipped with the Chalmers compressed air self-starter top and glass front. The tires are 34x4 on demountable rims. Both brakes are on the rear wheels. Timken roller bearings are used throughout. The radiator is of the cellular type and the car is in every way similar to the Chalmers "36" which the company put out for the first time in 1912.

ATHOL CELEBRATING 150TH ANNIVERSARY

ATHOL, June 17.—The town today is celebrating its 150th anniversary. A big parade and a program of sports were the day's feature. Tomorrow there will be a ball game and automobile sightseeing tour, an address by J. H. Attwood of Kansas City and the anniversary ball at Brookside Park.

KIDNEY TROUBLE is a destructive disease—thousands have it and don't know it. If you want good results you can make no mistake by using Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy. At druggists' in fifty cent and dollar sizes. Sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney trouble. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

'I HAVE SINNED AND SUFFERED,' SAYS MORSE

MORSE DECLARES NATURE A SURE CURE FOR CRIME

If people would only stop and think of the beautiful purity of nature, if they would only pause in their busy lives and get out in the green fields and think, there would be far less crime in this little world of ours. People are too busy, too selfish and thoughtless. They forget the really-worth-while things in life and mistake the means for the end.

I am glad to feel that the people of my home town have forgiven my mistakes and are ready to accept me as a friend and equal again. I have sinned and I have suffered much. At present I am glad to just be alive, to breathe God's pure air, to be out with nature.—Statement by Charles W. Morse.

NEW YORK, June 17—Charles W. Morse has discovered a preventative for crime. "If people would only pause in their busy lives and get out in the woods and green fields and think there would be far less crime in this little world of ours," he told a reporter today.

"I am glad to feel that the people of my home town, Bath, Me., have forgiven my mistakes and are ready to accept me as a friend and equal again," he said. "I have sinned and I have suffered much. At present I am glad to just be alive, to breathe God's pure air, to be out with nature.

"If people would only stop and think of the beautiful purity of nature there would be far less crime. People are too busy, too selfish and thoughtless. They forget the really worth while things in life and mistake the means for the end."

Plans New Methods.

Mr. Morse mentioned the gratifying evidence of the good wishes of his townspeople, shown in sending their children to call on him. He says that at present he feels much better physically and mentally that he has felt for some time.

He expects to return soon from New York to his home in Bath to spend the Summer. He says he will devote the Summer to rebuilding his health, which was much improved by the European trip, that he may be able to take up the battle of life once more and fight it out with new methods.

Morse is credited in Wall street with having put through a $10,000,000 deal for the control of his business from New York to Maine and from Boston to the Canadian Atlantic ports. A new company, called the Boston & Yarmouth Company, Limited, has been organized, with a Canadian charter, but its entire capital of $2,500,000 is held by the Eastern Steamship Corporation, organized in the old Morse days by a merger of the Eastern, the Maine and the Metropolitan companies.

It is said that Mr. Morse's trip last week to Bath was in behalf of the new enterprise. He had engineered the original merger and placed much of the stock with friends in Bath. It proved a good investment and although his troubles in Morse counted on the loyalty of Bath to him. As soon as he was ready to start again it was natural for them to think that he could "come back," and he found them willing to trust again to his guidance.

Ships Still Running.

The report on Wall Street today was that Morse got money as well as stock support in Bath, and that with this nucleus he gathered means to arrange the larger merger. A $10,000,000 is understood to imply very little actual cash, but rather the association of stock interests of whatever value and guilt those concerned. Cash will be raised by the sale of the bonds to pay for the three ships of the Bath & Portsmouth Company.

"I was in the steamship business before my troubles and I am going to go into business again that is naturally the line I will take up," was all Mr. Morse would say today on the merger report.

HUNT SLAYER WHO ESCAPED FROM EIGHT

NEW YORK, June 17—The police are hunting a derelict known as "Yellow," who, thrown out of the back room of a Lexington avenue saloon, returned and shot and killed Arthur Gilmartin, the bartender, fatally wounded Albert Coudrier, a waiter, and, holding eight other men in the place off with his revolver, made his escape. An ambulance on the way to the Harlem Hospital with the wounded waiter was wrecked in collision with a street car.

POSTOFFICE MEN TALK CONVENTION

The clerks of the Boston postal district met at Longfellow Hall. President McMahon presiding, to make plans for the national convention of the organization which open in this city on Labor Day. A telegram from Congressman Curley was read stating that the postoffice appropriation bill, which has been before the Senate for over a month, has been put over till July 15.

MAYOR HELPING OUT DAN CUPID

City Hall bachelors, get married before January 1, 1913, and there will be a raise in pay coming to you. This is the tip of Mayor Fitzgerald that is going the rounds of the City Hall.

"There are hundreds of young clerks who could get married just as well as not, and they ought to," says the Mayor. "I am going to do all I can to encourage them. The city is filled with handsome young women who would make ideal wives. I want these ambitious young men to marry these handsome young women. Raise their pay, give them a little more help. That's the way to do it. I'm going to see how many will take advantage of this tip."

Many Eligibles on Pay-Roll.

A glance at some of the well known men in the employ of the city and the county discloses the fact that the Mayor is probably right. But it may not be as easy matter to induce some of them men to seek a mate.

For instance, there is Corporation Counsel Joseph J. Corbett, whose salary is $10,000 a year. He is regarded as one of the most eligible of bachelors, and yet there is little indication that he will be found among the early arrivals on January 1.

"Why doesn't the Mayor start with his own secretary, William H. Leahy?" a South Boston woman asked when told of the Mayor's plan.

"I'm sure that Mr. Leahy would make a splendid husband," she continued. "Whether it is because he thinks he cannot afford to get married, or because he's plain shy, I don't know. But I think if Mayor Fitzgerald gave him a real good talking to he might do a lot of good."

Another bachelor who has been long in the public eye at City Hall is Chief Engineer Charles H. Slattery, who draws $5,000 from the city and $500 from the county as county treasurer. Mr. Slattery is said to doubt whether or not the Mayor's offer extends to him. Mr. Slattery has frequently been mentioned as a candidate for honorable honors, but they haven't touched him yet.

Chance for Dr. Mahoney.

It is well known at City Hall that Dr. Francis X. Mahoney might be permanent chairman of the Boston Board of Health if he would only accede to the Mayor's matrimonial policy. He is now acting chairman as a result of the resignation of Dr. Dwight Bartlett Garland, of October 1 the Mayor's department, is another young man whom the Mayor thinks when he is taking matrimony. He gets around $7,000 a year and is learning every day. Before taking the Mayor's tip, however, "Billy" Hahn may to have a personal talk with the Mayor to see if His honor really means it and how much the raise is to be, if this is good looking—and how much otherwise.

When "Billy" Talks of the election department heard of it he consulted brother Frank and brother Jim. They are now nearing him at all hours.

Other eligible bachelors in the employ of the city who may be affected by the Mayor's tip are Dr. Francis X. Crawford, port physician, salary $1,200; Dr. Edward M. Looney, assistant port physician, salary $1,200; Walter L. Finigan, chief clerk of the municipal court department, salary $1,700; George A. Flynn, assistant corporation counsel, salary $3,000; Richard H. Walsh, assistant corporation counsel.

The County of Suffolk is a fruitful place for reform. Among the promising young men are District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier, Assistant Frank Laveile and Sheriff John Quinn.

PRIZES AWARDED FOR CHARLESTOWN PARADE

More than 200,000 persons today saw the parade of "horribles" which opened Charlestown's celebration of Bunker Hill day. The parade was the biggest and best ever, was long enough and good enough to keep the throng of sightseers amused for more than an hour.

As even bigger crowd than that which turned out for the morning parade was on hand to see the big military procession this afternoon. Charlestown was in its gala attire for the 137th anniversary of the Battle of Bunker Hill.

In the award of the prizes for the parade of "horribles," second prize was given to "the AMERICAN family," representing comic cartoons from the Boston AMERICAN, and in charge of Coslgn Worth Bagley Camp, Spanish War Veterans. The prize winners were:

First prize—Jackson Juniors, representing "The circus coming to town," prize $250.

Second prize—Ensign Worth Bagley Camp, representing "Comic cartoons from Boston AMERICAN," prize of $150.

Third prize—James H. Brennan Club, representing "Bostonian Schoolboys," prize $100.

Fourth prize—Won by the Monument A. A., representing the "Kontinental Army," prize of $50.

Fifth prize—"Suf Ced" Association of Roxbury, representing "Back from Africa," prize of $10.

Banquets were held by the Catholic Literary Union, at the Waverly House, and by the Hayes Square Outing Club, at the new high school on Monument square.

When the guns of the Navy Yard boomed forth jackets on the battleships in the harbor, the Utah, Florida, North Dakota and Delaware, sprang to "dress ship." Many of the sailors marched in the parade today, and the stripping of thousands of flags and pennants from every spar and fighting top was a procedure to the day's functions.

The parade of the Antiques and Horribles, the distinctive feature of Charlestown's celebration, was "bigger and better than ever," as usual, this year.

The parade formed at Elm and Bunker Hill streets and passed through Bunker Hill street to Main, Gardner, Sever, Cambridge Main, Austin, Washington, Harvard streets to City square, west side Main street to Thompson square, Warren and Park streets City square, north side to Chelsea street, Bunker Hill, Elm and High streets to Monument square, passing west, south, east and north sides to Monument avenue, Warren, Park and Common streets to Adams street, where the parade was dismissed.

Mayor Fitzgerald reviewed the line of march from the clubhouse of the Catholic Literary Union.

Chief Marshal Howard V. Redgate and his staff were preceded by a platoon of mounted police, and some of the features were:

Junior Pirates, presented by the Peerless Pirate Club of Charlestown.

Cossacks, by Ensign Worth Bagley Camp, U. S. W., of Charlestown.

SHEEHAN TELLS PARTY'S NEED

The Klein News Service yesterday sent out the following interview:

John C. Sheehan, former leader of Tammany Hall, and organizer of the Greater New York Democracy, that was the principal factor in the Fusion success in 1901, was asked what he thought of the Democratic chances to elect a President this year.

"A better opinion might be given," he replied, "after the Baltimore convention. A great deal depends upon the candidate. Generally speaking, I believe the Democratic candidate will win, if the candidate can catch the confidence of the people. He must be a very strong man, of whom the worst as well as the best is known. He must have a strong and clear record, and must be able to convince the people that, if elected, he would be with all the people and not with only a few of them."

"Who would make the strongest candidate?" Mr. Sheehan was asked.

"I have answered similar queries that William R. Hearst is the man who comes nearer to meeting all the requirements of the situation than any other," replied Mr. Sheehan. "He is progressive and aggressive. He has the faculty for organization and for presenting the issues so that every man can know where he stands.

Never Accused of Breaking Word.

"Men have accused Mr. Hearst of many things, but he has never been accused of breaking his word, of deceiving the people, or of seeking his own advantage at the expense of others. And nobody has ever questioned his ability. That is a known quality and all that he has, libraries and in cash, has always been at the service of the American people. He is a born leader and he knows his country from one end of it to the other, and he knows its needs and the needs of the people.

"Like every positive men, he has enemies, but I believe that these enemies would prove a strong factor in making for the success of the Democratic party if Mr. Hearst should be its candidate for President.

"One extraordinary thing about the man is that practically every measure of a progressive character that has been of benefit to the people has been the result of his work and has been advocated by him.

Confidence of Business Men.

"The poor people of nearly every land know him, the business men can trust him because he has as large ventures in the business world as any other single citizen, and he is not afraid of any man or of anything.

Mr. Sheehan said that men who were believed to be antagonistic to Mr. Hearst personally agreed that he would make a strong and able President.

Concerning other candidates Mr. Sheehan added:

"Governor Harmon of Ohio would make a strong candidate. He has twice carried his native State and is an available man, but can he defeat Taft? Mayor Gaynor is another strong man and a natural leader, and as a campaigner he would prove aggressive and attractive. But he will not be nominated."

Mr. Sheehan said Roosevelt was a Democratic asset, since his erratic conduct was estranging many conservative Republican votes.

"He has been waging his fight for a third term on half-a-dozen different platforms, and he has always been ready to drop any one of them, or all of them, if it would be to his momentary advantage," he added. "It seems to me that he has forced the big men in the Republican party to get behind the President. So the latter has been growing stronger while Roosevelt has been growing weaker. It looks to me as if the President is now as strong as any Republican that could be nominated."

Mr. Hearst said last night:

"I have read Mr. Sheehan's statement with interest, and highly appreciate his kindly sentiments.

"I am, however, unreservedly for Mr. Clark. I am convinced that he is the logical candidate and that he will be nominated upon the first or second ballot."

"MUTTS" AND "JEFFS" HAVE A BALL GAME

SPOFFORD LAKE, N. H., June 17.—The annual outing of the Bay State Automobile Association, which has been on at Pine Grove Springs Hotel since Saturday was concluded at 3 o'clock when fifty cars headed towards Boston. A baseball game between the Mutts and Jeffs took place this morning. The Jeffs, under Captain Ralph Cowan, won by a score of 10 to 13. Walter Williams was captain of the Mutts. E. A. Gilmore, president of the club, and "Tim" Lace were the umpires. A sensational one-hand catch by Frank Wing was the feature of the game.

W. H. Stevens, chairman of the outing committee, was showered with praise for the excellent manner that every detail leading toward the comfort and pleasure of the members and their guests were carried out.

"ROOSEVELT BITTEN BY MOON-FLY," SAYS COLONEL EDWARDS

WASHINGTON, June 17.—"The moon-fly got the Colonel," according to Colonel James Edwards, for thirty-two years Democratic doorkeeper at the United States Senate. The African moon-fly, Mr. Edwards declares, either kills or drives mad the person it bites.

The Colonel was warned against the fly when he went to Africa, but defied it. Edwards thinks that the third-termer was bitten but did not know it. Now, he says, at every change of the moon the Colonel goes mad. Edwards has kept tab and says that at every change of the moon Mr. Roosevelt does some unusual stunt. The moon was just about to change when Mr. Roosevelt started for Chicago.

"It's moon-fly time with Mr. Roosevelt," said Edwards.

100,000 in Holiday Exodus on Railways

More than 100,000 Boston people spent the holiday out of town today. Since Saturday night every train has been crowded even to standing room and the steam road traffic experts declared that the 100,000 total was a conservative estimate of the number who heard the call of country and seashore.

With the "official" Summer but four days away the railroad terminals present an unusually busy appearance. The climax came this forenoon when thousands who had delayed their departure to see if the weather man would smile on Bunker Hill Day, filed in long waiting lines before the ticket windows.

DEATHS

THOMAS P. SHEEHAN is dead at his home at No. 88 Parsons street, Brighton. He was thirty-two years old and was a former member of the AMERICAN staff. He later joined the staff of the New York Journal. In 1908 he was assistant secretary of the American Olympic reception committee. Besides his parents, he is survived by two brothers and four sisters.

WILLIAM O. MILNE, former department commander of the Rhode Island, G. A. R., is dead at his home in Newport. He was sixty-five years old.

GEORGE A. O. ERNST was buried from his home at No. 48 Robeson street, Jamaica Plain. The Rev. Charles F. Dole, pastor of the First Unitarian Church, delivered the eulogy. Floral tributes were sent by the Finance Commission and Governor Foss.

WILLIAM W. GOODWIN, professor of Greek literature at Harvard College, is dead at his home at No. 5 Follen street, Cambridge, at the age of eighty-one. He was a member of the Hellenic, London; Philological of Cambridge, England; Archeological Society and Academy of Science, Athens; Hellenic Society, Constantinople, and Imperial German Archeological Institute, Berlin.

MRS. HELEN B. LITTLE, wife of John M. Little, is dead at her home at Phillips Beach, Swampscott. She was sixty-one years old.

FRED A. STROUD, SR., one of the oldest members of the Boston Typographical Union, died today at his home, No. 31 Fenwood road, Roxbury, in his eighty-third year. He is survived by his widow, a son, Fred A. Stroud, Jr., and one daughter, Mrs. Frances Dean. Mr. Stroud served in the British navy through the Crimean war.

CLARK BOOM AT BALTIMORE

BALTIMORE, June 17.—The first loud reverberations of the Champ Clark boom sounded here today above the noise of the Harmon movement. John W. Clifton, one of the Clark national managers, came over from Washington and proceeded to make things lively.

To the reporters Clifton said the Clark instructed and pledged vote is now nearer 500 than the 460 odd that the representatives of the opposition have generally conceded to the big Missourian, and that the Clark managers had received a sufficient number of promises from the supporters of Underwood, Wilson, Marshall, etc., to insure the Speaker's nomination not later than the third ballot.

After the arrival today of former Senator Fred Dubois, of Idaho, Clark's chief campaign manager, it is expected that a complete poll of the Clark vote will be given out.

"We are nearer the goal today," said Mr. Clifton, "than Grover Cleveland was when his name was first presented to the Democratic National Convention of 1884 for the presidential nomination. Every day is adding to the Clark strength and, at the present rate of growth, I would not be surprised if the Speaker was nominated on the second ballot."

Roses Pay Children for Guarding Bushes

Professor James R. Jewett of Harvard kept his promise to the children of Cambridge today and let them strip his blooming rose bushes. On the professor's grounds at No. 67 Kirkland street are beautiful rose bushes. The boys and girls in the neighborhood are honest, but the Jewett flowers are a temptation.

The professor told the youngsters that, if they would spare his roses till June 17, they could have all they wished. Edward Comerford, patrolman of Station 1, Cambridge, whose beat takes in Kirkland street, passed the word along. The children obeyed.

Today the boys and girls gathered in front of Professor Jewett's house and, at a signal, rushed in and picked the bushes clean. Several hasty boys and girls also learned, if they didn't know it before, that every rose has its thorns.

Bright Side of the Convention; George Ade Spends Night in Own Hen-House

CHICAGO, June 17.—George Ade won't be so strong a Chicago booster when the next convention time comes around. He was anxious to have the Windy City picked as the gathering place of the Republican clans this year—but now he has regrets. And thereby hangs a tale.

Ade strolled into the Chicago Athletic Club wearing a bored and pained expression and a rumpled gray suit.

"What's the matter, George, old top?" asked a friend. "You look as though you'd missed some sleep." He clapped the modern Aesop on the shoulder.

George winced.

"Look out for that shoulder," he cried. "I've got the rheumatism. Sleep? Where have I heard that word before? I invited a crowd of Indiana Republicans down to my country place in Newton County last night. They brought so many friends along I had to give up my bed and sleep in the henhouse.

"You know what time hens get up. Well they—er—made it a point for me to get up, too."

Drifting through the hotel lobbies and listening to chance conversations, one hears scraps like the following:

"You cannot tell me that Taft is honest. I attended all the hearings on that bill before the committees of Congress, and I know—" This from a short, stocky gentleman of ultra-enthusiastic mein, whose long, unkempt gray hair proclaimed him a man with a hobby.

"Schedule K is the most pernicious piece of legislation ever enacted."

"Taft is in the hands of the Old Guard and does not know his own mind."

Louis A. Coolidge of Brookline, treasurer of the United Shoe Machinery Company, and Marshall Cushing of New York, formerly of Hingham, are here looking on at the crowd and thanking their lucky stars that they no longer have to worry about what political leaders are doing.

"Tom" Lawson and John Hays Hammond are longing for Egypt and Gloucester. The trains under the eaves of their apartments at the Blackstone, disturb their slumbers and they will be glad when the battle is over.

Senator Crane smokes the smallest cigars of any man here. They are the size of toothpicks.

"If men would take these small cigars," said Senator Crane, "their craving for nicotine would be satisfied. That would pertain to most men, I believe; yet there are men who when they swear off smoking big cigars smoke so many of the small ones that they catch up and overlap. These men are merely cheating themselves on the tobacco question when they take to smoking small cigars."

William L. Ward, Republican national committeeman of New York, is deaf. He is more deaf as the exigencies of a political situation present themselves to him. He isn't so deaf when the proposition is in his favor. He reminds one of the story they used to tell in Washington of Representative John Ketcham of the Dutchess district. A constituent of Ketcham's on a visit to Washington ran short of funds.

"John, lend me $10 to get home," he demanded of his representative.

"Hey?" replied Ketcham, his hand to his ear in the shape of a trumpet.

"Lend me $20," reloined the constituent.

"You said $10 first," responded Ketcham, quick as a flash.

He's a sore jawed bull, his face is roun';
His legs is short an' he's close to the groun'
And you bet they ain't kickin' Teddy's dawg aroun'.

CHORUS:

Square jawed bull, and he ain't no houn';
Short legged bull and close to the groun',

Stevenson weighs about 300; Lindsey tips the scales at about 120.

Pueblo Fireman Confident of Winning World's Title

I'LL BEAT JOHNSON OR DIE---FLYNN

By ED W. SMITH.

Sporting editor Chicago American, who will referee championship bout.

EAST LAS VEGAS, N. M., June 17.—"If I don't win this fight I want to die before they carry me out of the arena." This was the fervent statement made today by Jim Flynn, Pueblo fireman, challenger of Jack Johnson, and Jim meant every word of it.

He had just come out of the gymnasium after one of the best workouts of his month's stay here and the gleam of the Colorado fighter told of the coming of good condition, if not actually of the arrival of it right now.

"What I want is to make Curley have a gun trained on me during the fight and if I am not returned as the winner I want him to touch it off right at my head," Jim continued.

This is indicative of the confidence held by the Pueblo man. I haven't seen any chap like his spirit in a championship contender in a long time.

"They tell me Johnson isn't training the way he should. Jim worried along in his easiest way. "I may prove to be the snap he thinks I am, but there is a bare chance that he may be mistaken, and I would hate to have it said afterward that I whipped a man who wasn't in any sort of shape. Why don't somebody make him work?"

When assured that Johnson was doing all that was considered necessary to get himself in first-class condition for the meeting Flynn was partially mollified.

Jim's brother, Louis, met Johnson on the morning before and told Jim of it. In telling him that Johnson looked as if he was just finishing a long journey over the hills.

Fight Three Weeks Away.

In three weeks the big gladiators will take to the arena and the work of training has developed into the final stage. It hasn't changed a great deal excepting in speed from what has been during the past two weeks.

But you can all wager heavily that the spirit is there, and there in large guise. There is a feeling of quiet confidence and unbound willingness in the camp of the champion, out at Old Town, where everybody is smilingly polite and suave from the boss of the job down town to the most lowly of the helpers.

Johnson is accepting the situation and all of its strange and picturesque details with a great deal of complacency. Indeed this feeling borders to the casual onlooker upon actual carelessness and indifference. The champion himself loafs along through his idle hours and some of the sharps around here are complaining that he is not displaying the snap and ginger that he should three weeks in advance of such an important fight.

Johnson a Plodder.

But when one digs down under the crust of the big black man one finds that the right spirit is there. Johnson is not full of fuss or flurry, differing vastly from the hurrah methods of the challenged Jack plods along through his work, laughing and kidding with his helpers and the few spectators that he knows in those quaint cosmopolitan crowds that watch his daily offerings in the way of work. But he gets a whole lot out of what he does. He never makes his work look like work. To the ordinary onlooker he seems to be merely putting in the time. But when one digs deep one sees that Johnson is training as hard for this contest as he ever did for any, and is slowly and surely getting the results.

It is different out at Flynn's magnificent Montezuma quarters. Back to his old rollicking ways after having given his friends more than one sleepless night during the time that he picked up the title of "Turbulent Jim," Flynn to-day is one of the sweetest of athletes as far as disposition is concerned. He fairly shouted with exuberance as he trotted down the hill to his quarters after the work of the morning, a tryout that was signed with plenty of ginger and spirit of the right sort.

Then is was that Jim grabbed me by the hand and said he would rather die than lose the battle, and losing, would want to die before leaving the arena.

"How can I lose, when I'm in such shape?" is the question he asked constantly. He radiates hope and confidence, instilling it into all with whom he comes in contact. In his reckless mood one cannot help liking the former bear who frightened everybody away and made life miserable for his helpers.

Murphy Out to Win Over Matty Baldwin

By JACK CONWAY.

"I AM certain that I will vanquish Matty Baldwin at the Pilgrim club Wednesday night," declared Eddie Murphy today. "Matty is a pretty classy performer," continued the local boxing welterweight, "but he is not quite as good as I am.

"I am almost down to weight and will not be weak when I enter the ring. There are many 'fans' who claim that I am not in legitimate training. But they are wrong. I could make 133 pounds ringside, if necessary, but do not intend to make the weight for any boxer I may be going with the exception of Champion Ad Wolgast.

"Very few of the present day lightweights are sucking weight. The majority of the bouts are being fought at catch weights or at 133 pounds at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

"If I defeat Baldwin, I will start after a return bout with Packey McFarland. I consider McFarland the greatest man of his weight in the world. When I met the Windy City whirlwind at South Bend, I held him on even terms and I believe that I would have an excellent chance of defeating him in another battle.

"But before I make any plans for the future I must win from Baldwin. The Bunker Hill favorite is a rugged little fellow and the person who outlived him the "Bearcat" also, at the ball on the head. McLean's prowess has been performing in the squared circle for over ten years and has never been knocked out.

"BEFORE I started boxing myself, I was a great admirer of Baldwin. I delighted to see him box in and swap punch for punch with his opponent. When I first entered the ring, I followed Baldwin's style of fighting. I would let my opponent hit me four or five times in order that I could get close enough to slip across one of my patented "hay makers."

After a while, however, I began to realize that if I ever hoped to obtain prominence in the ring I must develop science. I watched clever men perform and mastered all of their movements until today, I believe, I can say without boasting that I am one of the most scientific men of my weight in the game.

"I believe that my skill will enable me to outpoint Baldwin. The Charlestown boy is a typical rusher and I don't believe that he will be able to land many effective punches.

"I am in its best condition that I have been in for months. I have been training like a Trojan for the past six weeks and am ready to put up the fight of a lifetime. Therefore, Matty Baldwin had better look out for squalls at the Arena Wednesday night."

BALDWIN has been training at Lynnfield. He will not experience the least bit of difficulty in making weight. The Charlestown boxer is a legitimate lightweight and is one of the few men in the business who can make the lightweight limit of 133 pounds ringside and still be strong enough to put up a gruelling contest.

Baldwin is working with Gilbert Gallant of Chelsea, who is scheduled to clash with Young Jasper of the North End in one of the preliminaries. Gallant is a promising young lightweight and has come to the front with a rush since he has been under the management of Alex McLean.

Like Baldwin, Gallant is a rusher and delights in mixing things at close quarters. He is picked to win from Jasper in decisive fashion.

Pilgrims	0	0	0	0	2	0	2	0	x—4
Cincinnati	0	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	0—2

Two-base hits—McDonald, Jackson, B. McDonald, Beecher. Home runs—Bates, Campbell, Kirke, Jackson. Struck out—By Humphries, 2; by Perdue, 3. Sacrifice hits—Egan, Bates. Umpires—Klem and Bush. Attendance—2,000.

Johnnie Kling's outfield—Jay Kirke, Vin Campbell and "Hickory" Jackson—each produced a home run this morning and delivered the first holiday game to their boss on a silver platter, 4 to 3.

Hank O'Day offered Pitcher Humphries for the sacrifice, but the Pilgrims could not scare a run out of his hide before the sixth inning and the game looked like it was going the way of many a predecessor, when suddenly the outfield came forth with a whoop and changed the scene.

Campbell was the first to deliver. He started that home run stuff by a long time. In the sixth inning he gave it up, dropping the ball far over the fence that keeps the Columbus avenue crowd out of the bleachers. A few minutes later Jay Kirke pleased the bleacherites.

Home Runs the Rule.

In the first spasm of the same inning Bates, the ex-Bostonian, who is playing centrefield while Bobbitzel is taking a degree in dentistry, put one over the Columbus avenue fence as a reminder of his ancient prowess here. In the second inning the redlegs had scored two runs, so when Campbell and Kirke delivered their four-baggers the score became 3 to 2, and 3,000 "fans" began to take notice.

Bobbie Beecher, the one best runner in the National League, was on third in the first half of the eighth, arriving there by dint of his own double and Bates' sacrifice fly. Marsans dropped what looked like a Texas leaguer into centre field just back of second base. Campbell sprinted in, and to the amusement of the crowd tilled Beecher's score by scraping the ball off the grass, clinging to it and turning a somersault.

The speedy outfielder was winded by the sprint and when Charley McDonald immediately threw his drive in the Pilgrims' half of the inning he just managed to reach first. Sweeney sacrificed him along, and Kirke tilled to Mitchell. Then Jackson completed the outfielders' home runs by boosting one high into the bleachers, whereat the crowd stood and roared so you could hear 'em down town. That won the game.

Pilgrims Played Superb Baseball.

The Pilgrims played superb baseball—their second straight game without an error. Nearly everybody turned in at least one classy play. The cleverest was when, with Marsans on third in the sixth, Eddie McDonald, after taking Egan's foul worked the old hidden ball trick with "Hub" Perdue, caught the Beet Cuban off third, and chased him into Kling's hands.

Bill Sweeney produced one of his own specialties when he made a wonderful stop of Egan's drive in the ninth, tagged Mitchell on the run and winged the ball to first in time to cut down Egan. O'Rourke made a classy one-hand stop back of second in the fourth inning, robbing C. McDonald of a hit.

Kling intended to use Hank Gowdy, who has developed into a "five-tooler," at first base, but Gowdy had the index finger of his right hand broken before the game. Gowdy has suffered more injuries this season than any other Pilgrim.

"Hub" Perdue pitched a clever game, and after the second inning had the Reds eating out of his hand.

Amateur Games

After being requested by the many citizens and residents of Roxbury who have been loyal supporters and admirers and ardent followers of the many good teams this district has played, we have decided to put a strong semi-professional team in the field this season. We have played for many years. This team to be composed of the fastest players that can be procured. Always will be most anxious to meet any fast team. Have signed with Tom Sullivan, Jack O'Brien, a former outfielder of Hingham & Quincy, Joe Fauerbach of the Notre Dame baseball team, Jack Hayes of the Notre Dame baseball team and Jimmy Lee, formerly of New England and Pitcher Joe Heiers of the Notre Dame baseball team have been secured. They have to fill their schedule with games from the best semi-professional teams in New England. Address Fitzpatrick, Manager, No. 231 Highland street, Roxbury.

The Clinton A. C. baseball team would like to arrange games with any fast team in vicinity. Also any 18-year-old church team in the Metropolitan district. Address all games and communications to Manager Frank McDermott, No. 531 Crescent street, Brockton.

The Hackettes of Brighton have open dates in July and August and would like to arrange games with any 12-13-year-old teams in and around Boston. Manager V. B. Seddon, No. 48 Hagen street, Brighton.

The Juniors of Dorchester would like games from any seventeen-eighteen-year-old teams. Manager F. Calvin, No. 12 Bentham road, Dorchester.

The Fields of Dorchester would like to arrange games with the fastest seventeen-year-old teams in and around Boston. Have open dates for July and August. Manager C. Sullivan, No. 95 Bine Hill avenue, Dorchester.

The Lorenzkers, Thomas, Union No. 87, have organized one of the most semi-professional baseball teams in the state called the Hi Yas. Games and would like to book games with teams throughout the State. J. Grossman, No. 6 Ellsworth street, Chelsea.

The Crown Point Red Sox would like to arrange games with any thirteen-fourteen-year-old baseball teams in the State. Edward C. Bond, No. 1 East Sixth street, South Boston.

The Crescent A. C. of Roxbury would like to arrange games with strongest thirteen and fourteen-year-old teams in and around Boston. Manager Joseph Williams, No. 3 Whitney street, Hyde Park.

Famous Oarsman Reports Crew News for American

TITUS PICKS HARVARD TO WIN

With the Harvard and Yale boat race only a few days away the AMERICAN has secured the services of Constance S. Titus, the world's foremost amateur oarsman, to look over the rival crews, and in the following article he gives his opinion of the big race after spending several days at the Gale's Ferry and Red Top training camps:

By CONSTANCE S. TITUS.

NEW LONDON, Ct., June 17.—From the time trials on the Thames River, according to the famous clockers, it looks very much like Harvard has a walkover in all the events.

But Yale's freshmen have improved wonderfully in the last week, especially on their catch. Their new Ward shell carries them nicely and it seems to put new life in the boat.

They have more ginger and snap than the varsity.

Harvard has a very snappy freshmen crew, which will row a very much higher stroke and are better finished watermen than Yale's crew.

At any rate this will make a much better race than the varsity from a racing standpoint. I think it will be a closer contest than I expected a week ago.

Yale's varsity has improved some in the last week, but not as much as they should have. They are entirely too slow on the catch, and their watermanship is not up to the standard; but they certainly have a very plucky strokeman.

He seems a bit anxious and overreaches himself, and he has a very long, sweeping stroke. If he would shorten up his stroke a bit and raise it a little higher, it's no question but that the boat would get along considerably better. But he deserves a great deal of credit for the way he stroked his crew last Friday.

At times the bowmen do not seem to reach out and pull the oar through with the rest of the crew, and it is very noticeable at times.

In their recovery they do not feather their oars; in fact, the whole crew have a peculiar style, at times, of turning the blades gradually as they are reaching out for the stroke, and when some of their backs are at right angles the blade is in the position to catch the water, and if the water is a bit rough it will hit the blade of the oar and retard the speed of the boat greatly, without saying anything about the head wind, which will also hold them back and play out the men's fore arms.

On the other hand, Coach Wray has drilled his men on this one point until they have got it down to perfection. They can stick an oar in the water on the catch very nearly as fast as a sculler can.

Harvard tried very hard to lengthen her strokes since the Cornell race, but it seems to be no longer than when she rowed Cornell, and a great many of the wise ones thought she could not go the four-mile route with this short stroke.

No. 5 in Harvard's varsity crew looks very funny on his body swing, and also Captain Strong at times gets his oar very high in the air on the recovery.

It is too bad that the new English four-oared shell which Harvard ordered some months ago will not be here in time for the race.

But Yale has had some bad luck in that line. She received her eight in time, but the oarlocks were not in that shipment, and it has caused them a great deal of lost time trying to rig the boat up so the crew could row it in this race.

Leland Stanford also has been disappointed by the English boat makers. Everyone is hot race in a boat race, and you can never tell who the winner is until the race is over, but, as the old saying goes, I hope the best crew will win. The leading crew may break an oar when they look a sure winner and lose out.

James Albini's Work Features Boys Meet

The Roxbury league won the annual senior meet of the Boston Social Union Athletic Association held at Wood Island Park today, with a total of 33½ points. Hale House was second with 21, while the Ellis Memorial and South Bay Union were tied for third with 13½ points.

In the junior meet the Dennison House had little trouble in romping off with the first honors, having 31½ points. The Roxbury League captured second place in this meet with 11½ points. Hale House was third with 11 points and Ellis Memorial fourth with ½ point.

The feature of the day was the work of James Albini of the elmnison House in the broad jump for juniors. The young Syrian lad made a new record for that event with a leap of 10 feet 6 inches.

SOMERVILLE TRIMS MALDEN-MEDFORD 4-0

Somerville beat Malden-Medford in the Greater Boston League today 4 to 0 at the Somerville field. The game was fast and marked by sensational work on both sides. The score:

Somerville	3 1 0 0 0 0 x — 4 8 1

"I Don't Like That Shape"

THAT is the comment often made by men who haven't learned the advantages of the Londres shape. Think a minute: The Londres gives you 15% to 20% more smoke than a torpedo-shaped cigar of the same length. Furthermore, you get the full smoke from the first touch of the match. Also, there is no squeezing of the filler at the end to choke the draught and cause irregular and imperfect burning.

WAITT & BOND BLACKSTONE CIGAR 10c

is a perfect cigar—in shape, the scientific Londres; in leaf—the hygienic combination of fine, long, clean Havana filler with the silky Sumatra wrapper. It is a cigar for gentlemen of refined taste who smoke for pleasure regardless of vain display.

YANKS GARNER STAR FIELDER

BROCKTON, June 17.—In Patrick Maloney, the fleet Brockton outfielder, the New York Highlanders have one of the best gardeners ever taken from the New England League.

Maloney was purchased by President Frank Farrell from John W. McCue, owner of the local club, Kauff of Rochester coming to Brockton in the trade.

Maloney is very fast on his feet, never loses his head, his baseball generalship is above par; he works hard when necessary and takes things easy when he isn't pushed.

He is a very strong hitter. His swing is full and free and he hits the ball on the nose. His swatting is steady, and as a timely hitter he has had no equal in the league.

New York is also after young Malcolm Harry, a local boy, who has been playing phenomenal ball this season. It is his first year in the big leagues, and he has hit strongly all season.

His average is close to .400. He has made but one error playing first in the thirty-one games this season, and has struck out but once.

The scouts' eyes are also on Klondike Smith, the hard-hitting fielder, and Paul Howard, who is a very strong hitter and an excellent infielder. Both are hitting at a .380 clip.

BIG TEAMS TO GET BROWN PLAYERS

PROVIDENCE, June 17.—Captain Nash of the Brown University nine is slated to sign with the Cleveland team of the American League. President Somers of the Blues has made him a most liberal offer for his services. Consolman is pledged to the Pittsburg Club of the National League, although during the past three months the Detroit Americans have been most persistent bidders for him. The Philadelphia and Detroit American League Clubs are camping on Warner's trail.

SECOND INNING.

Cincinnati—Egan walked. Sweeney threw out Phelan. Egan going to second. C. McDonald died the same way and Egan went to third. E. McDonald threw out McLean. NO RUNS.

Pilgrims—Kirke drove a sharp single to left. C. McDonald fumbled Jackson's drive and both runners were safe. Houser beat out an infield hit filling the bases. O'Rourke forced Kirke at the plate, C. McDonald to McLean. Kling forced Jackson at the plate, Phelan to McLean. Dickson fanned. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING.

Cincinnati—O'Rourke threw out Suggs. Beecher was called on strikes. Bates got a single over second. Marsans died to Kirke. NO RUNS.

Pilgrims—E. McDonald singled past Marsans. He was caught off first, Suggs to Marsans. Campbell delivered one to Bates. Suggs tossed out Sweeney. NO RUNS.

FOURTH INNING.

Cincinnati — Mitchell struck out, and O'Rourke's good throw retired Egan. Phelan boosted to Campbell. NO RUNS.

Pilgrims—Suggs threw out Kirke. Mc-Donald threw out Jackson. Houser drove one to Bates. NO RUNS.

FIFTH INNING.

Cincinnati—C. McDonald boosted to Campbell. McLean singled through the box. Suggs singled to left. Beecher flied to Kirke. Bates flied to Jackson. NO RUNS.

Pilgrims—O'Rourke struck out. Kling was called out on strikes. Suggs made it three straight by fanning Dickson.

SIXTH INNING.

Cincinnati—Marsans dropped a Texas leaguer back of third base. Mitchell sacrificed, Kling to Houser. Egan grounded to Houser. Marsans going to third. Dickson tossed out Phelan. NO RUNS.

Pilgrims—McDonald popped to C. McDonald. So did Campbell. Sweeney drove a single through Egan. Kirke flied to Egan, who made a spectacular one-hand catch. NO RUNS.

SEVENTH INNING.

Cincinnati — C. McDonald grounded to Houser. O'Rourke booted McLean's drive, and he was safe. Dickson, Sweeney and Houser pulled off a neat double play, retiring McLean and Suggs. NO RUNS.

Pilgrims—Jackson stopped one of Suggs' fast ones with his right arm. Houser fouled to McLean. Jackson stole second. O'Rourke fanned again. Suggs purposely passed Kling. Dickson drove a sharp one to Egan, who touched second, forcing Kling. NO RUNS.

EIGHTH INNING.

Cincinnati—Beecher died to Campbell. Bates grounded to Houser. O'Rourke made a good stop and threw out Marsans. NO RUNS.

Pilgrims—McDonald walked. Campbell sacrificed, Suggs to Marsans. Sweeney drove a long sacrifice fly to Bates, McDonald going to third. Kirke died to C. McDonald. NO RUNS.

NINTH INNING.

Cincinnati—Mitchell singled to centre. Egan sacrificed, Dickson to Houser. Phelan walked. McDonald singled to centre, scoring Mitchell. Phelan went to third and McDonald to second on Campbell's throw to the plate. McLean hit to Dickson and Phelan was caught between third and the plate, Dickson to Kling to McDonald. Suggs singled to centre, scoring C. McDonald and McLean, and took second on the throw in. Beecher drove a single to the same place, scoring Suggs, and Beecher took second when Campbell fumbled the ball. Bates doubled to right, scoring Beecher. Bates deliberately ran up to third while Dickson held the ball and was thrown out, Dickson to McDonald. FIVE RUNS.

Pilgrims—Jackson raised one to Beecher. Houser doubled to the right-field fence. O'Rourke fanned for the third time. Kling flied to Beecher. NO RUNS.

Chicago—Collins flied out to Hooper. Zelder fouled to Cady. Bodie lifted to Lewis. NO RUNS.

PROVIDENCE FANS WANT ROCK BACK

PROVIDENCE, June 17.—The management of the Providence Baseball Club is being criticised because of the release of Roy Rock and a petition for his reinstatement has been signed by business and professional men.

OLYMPIC TEAM IS BUSY AT SEA

ON BOARD STEAMER FINLAND (via wireless), June 17.—The American Olympic team is training as strenuously aboard the Finland as though the final few weeks before the big international games were being spent on land.

All the athletes are going through two daily workouts, one in the morning, the other in the afternoon. Thus the athletes are occupied practically the entire day, directly or indirectly, with putting in the final touches to their training.

Even the discus and hammer throwers, whose events always demand a wide berth on any athletic field, are keeping in practice.

A stout rope is attached to the discus and hammer, which the athletes are then at liberty to fling as far out into the ocean as their strength will permit.

After each throw the instruments are hauled in like fish and the throw is repeated.

The crack pistol shots are also keeping their hand in. A target has been placed at a conveniently quiet corner of the ship.

G. A. THREADGOLD WINS CHELSEA CLUB RUN

The seven-mile road race of the William F. Morse Athletic Club of Chelsea, from Melrose Highlands to Chelsea Square, was won today by G. A. Threadgold of the North Dorchester A. A., with a time of 48 minutes 30 seconds. I. Saclad of the North Dorchester A. A. finished second, beating out Michael Hayes by a narrow margin. The fourth man to finish was A. J. McGlone; fifth, A. K. Sturgis; sixth, Edward Peabody; seventh, G. Fitzpatrick; eighth, Thomas Henahan; ninth, Arthur Roth; tenth, Edward Clark.

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

One lone and lonesome virtue can never make a well rounded man. It's not special features that make the Ford a great car—but the perfection of all its parts. Not one virtue, but the happy combination of an endless list of virtues, makes the Ford "the universal car".

Seventy-five thousand new Fords go into service this season—proof of their unequaled merit. The price is $590 for the roadster, $690 for the five passenger car, and $700 for the delivery car—complete with all equipment, f. o. b. Detroit. Latest catalogue from Ford Motor Company, 650 Beacon street, Boston, or direct from Detroit factory.

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S DAILY DOUBLE

Daysey Mayme and Her Folks

THE DESIRE TO ENLIGHTEN

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE.

WHEN a great man leaves his little home town to visit in a big city he shrinks, and shrinks, and shrinks until when he comes back he isn't any bigger than a fly trying to get through a screen door.

In the same way some men who are important and of some influence down town shrink, and shrink, and shrink on nearing wife and home until, like the flea, they are so small they could almost creep through a crack when they get there.

The description fits Lysander John Appleton, whose words are of some weight down town, and of no weight in his own family.

It makes little difference to his wife and daughter that he also has opinions. He is never permitted to air them at home.

When the spirit of Mental Unrest seizes him he is denied the outlet of address, flag Uplift clubs and societies. The best he can do is to chew the end of a stubby little pencil and write his Important Discoveries on the backs of receipted bills found in his pockets.

He recently chewed out the following Definitions of Words and Expressions, which he would disclose to the world if he were only bold enough:

Hospitality: Nothing more than loneliness.

Inimitable: A word commonly used to flatter a woman, and which invariably pleases her, though she doesn't know what it means.

Dim, religious light: A poetic and dignified way to saying the windows need washing.

Endless grind: Expression women use to describe housework, though a more modern expression would be, "The housekeeper's marathon."

Something up his sleeve: An expression used to denote all sorts of mystery, though the only thing any man ever has up his sleeve is an undershirt that won't come down.

Romantic drama: Something in which it is impossible to interest any man who has a wife and a lot of children to support.

Vivacious: Used to refer to those we like. In speaking of those we dislike "garrulous" is better.

Love: That state of mind which changes a young man's idea of music from a steam calliope to a guitar.

Mantle of night: Depends upon a man whether it is a night shirt or pajamas.

The good old times: A period many years ago, when a woman could get a hired girl for $1.50 a week, and the girl stayed with her as long as ten years.

Whirlwind speed: Of feminine gender only. When a man feels that way he is called a grouch, a beast or a scorcher. Never "wistful eyed."

Illiarity: The sensation a thief experiences when he reads in the morning paper that the dollar watch he stole the night before is valued at five hundred dollars.

The Manicure Lady

"I THINK them German sailors is awful cute. Don't you, George?" asked the Manicure Lady.

"I ain't tamped any of them," replied the Head Barber. "I ain't been over to New York and none of them has come over to Boston to get shaved. I guess most of the sailors must shave themselves."

"Me and Wilfred was over to New York and we went on the German flagship," said the Manicure Lady. "We got treated great. Wilfred has a friend named Herman—Herman Thies, or some good old German moniker like that—and Herman, being a German and a fine swimmer, was anxious to go out and see the German navy boys. We had it all framed up for the old gent to go along, too, and see what Germany could show in the way of battleships, but father had been flirting with a few schooners himself, George, and you need know what that means.

"Wilfred was that delighted with the way the German sailors treated us that he told one of the younger officers that he was going to write the whole thing up for the biggest magazine in the United States. He even went so far as to get a photograph of the young officer, and if that poor German kid thinks that he is going to see his rug in print he thinks funny thoughts. Poor Wilfred! He has been dreaming so long that he believes everything he tells. He couldn't even get his own picture in the paper, George, unless they put it in some time when he got arrested.

"But the sailors was simply grand, George. They was the finest looking lot of men that I have ever saw, and they was that attentive. Honest to goodness, George, I dropped my handkerchief once and six of them stooped down for it at once, all of the six heads going together. There was a awful crash, George, like one plank hitting another, but they didn't even seem to mind the accident, and I got my handkerchief. I think discipline is simply grand. Don't you, George?"

"I ain't very keen for it," replied the Head Barber. "I got a swell call down from the chief this morning, just because I came here a few minutes late. He said that the next time it happened I would be walking around looking for a new place to hone my razors, and he kind a meant it, too. I can tell that much about human nature. I don't have to get a kick in the shins to understand how things shapes up at the store. Discipline is all right during a civil war, but I think the rest of the time it is better to go along kind of care free. Old Tom Longfellow had it right when he said, 'As we journey through life let us live by the way.'

"But it wasn't Tom Longfellow that said that," corrected the Manicure Lady, flushed with the idea that at last she had the Head Barber where she wanted him. "It was John Greenleaf Milton that wrote them lines."

"It don't matter who wrote them lines," said George. "I was thinking more about the lines than the author. Speaking about sailors, here comes one now."

"Then treat him right, George. Don't try to give him the work. Don't even ask him by your manner for a tip. Sailors have to work harder than you. They brave them tempests when the waves is waving mountain high, showing the awful majesty of the sea—the cruel, devouring sea. Don't forget, George, that you are about to shave a hero—a man that comes face to face with death on all these occasions on which a man is called on to come face to face with death."

"Don't worry," said the Head Barber. "He passed by the door."

What Is a Sign of Love?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WHAT do you think is a sign that love has come? You have an opinion, and, without a shadow of doubt, it is based on experience. Looking back to that experience, would you say the writer of this letter is in love?

"I am a youth, and considered good-looking by the fair sex. I think I am in love with a girl, but she seems to be indifferent to me. I think of her day and night. Is that a sign that I love her?"

I say it is. To dream of a girl all night, and think of her all day is conclusive proof of love. Of no one in the world does a man think so constantly except of the girl he loves.

There are also other signs, many of them more convincing. He sees no fault in the girl. He is never with her so long at a time that he has had a surfeit of her society.

The hours fly when with her, and drag when away. The only happiness he knows when they are apart is counting the time when he will be with her again.

He has no hopes that do not centred around her. He can imagine no joy that is independent of her existence, and if trouble comes to him, his first thought is of the effect it may have on her.

He wants to shield her. He longs for the right to protect her from every adverse wind that blows. He regards money as only a means for making life pleasant for her; he counts all his friends of no value unless they are also friends to her.

The signs of love are legion, but this young man has the one that is unmistakable. In the constant thinking of her will originate every dream for her, every hope for her, every ambition.

He continues: "She is very popular among the boys, and she treats them all as she treats me. A friend of mine met her once, and now he is apparently smitten with her. Would you consider that a cause of breaking off my friendship with him or would you step aside and let him have her?"

Ah, here is a sign that doesn't point to genuine love. No real lover entertains the thought of "letting" some other man have the girl he loves.

If the most peaceable man in the world every drop of blood in his veins becomes fighting blood at such a prospect. "Let" him have her! Not if constant devotion, if patience, if a thirst for every inch of ground with every weapon love calls its own can win her!

The man who steps meekly aside in such a contest is one of love's mollycoddles. He has water in his veins, and lukewarm water at that.

He will never win anything he wants in life for the reason that there is always some other man who wants the same thing.

He will find there are others who want what he wants in every walk in life. If he will meekly give up a fight for the girl he loves, he will more meekly surrender the round of the ladder he has reached because some other man wants it.

He will get nowhere. Indeed, I doubt if he will ever start, for even at the starting place there are always others who want to have their turn with their toes on the line.

He loves this girl. Of this there is no doubt. But it is a weak, colorless sort of affection; the kind that clings without giving support; the kind that drags and pulls down.

If he goes to her and says as he has said to me in effect: "I love you. I think of you by day and by night. Another man loves you. Shall I step aside and let him have you?"

If he says that, and she has the sense she needs for her own protection, she will tell him it is not in his power to "let" any man have her. That is within no one's power but her own.

But if he feels that way about it, she will add with scorn, he need never attempt to see her again.

Then she will regard him as a closed incident; a book that has been read and that left a disagreeable impression.

Cooking Secrets of a Famous Chef

By Emile Bailly, of the St. Regis Hotel, New York

THE ICE CREAM SODA GIRL.

Drinks for the Summer Girl and a Hot Weather Dish.

EVERY Frenchman, especially a French chef, is appalled when he comes to this country at the amount of ice water that the Americans drink, both in Summer and Winter.

We never know ice water until we come to this country, for ice in France is not only a luxury but it is an unnecessary and unheard of one. The Frenchman and Frenchwoman think too much of their digestion, and they appreciate the delicacy of taste which gives them the real enjoyment of good cooking so much that they would not ruin either by deluging themselves with huge gulps of ice water.

When It Does

At the risk of displeasing you, I am going to tell you just what ice water does to you when you drink it before or during a meal.

You all know that the stomach is lined with delicate glands which furnish the gastric juices. Ice water not only paralyzes these glands and hinders them from performing their proper function, but if food is already in the stomach the oil and grease float to the top of the water and coat the sides of the stomach, thickly, rendering digestion impossible.

That is not a very nice thing to think of, but you can know that every time you drink a quantity of ice cold water on top of a rich or hearty meal you are absolutely interfering with the process of digestion. You are chilling the oil or greasy substance in the food, and rendering it thick and insoluble, and if you suffer in consequence I can only say I think it was your own fault.

Never Ice Water

Water should be taken at the temperature of a cold spring, but never iced; nature didn't intend us to drink ice water in Summer and as a matter of fact cool water does more to decrease the heat of the body than ice water does. The iced water is merely a shock, chilling one for the moment, after which the body, which always tries to maintain the equilibrium, redoubles its effort to warm up the chilled parts.

Iced tea seems to be another very popular Summer drink, but personally I find it very bad for the nerves, and it is not in vogue in France.

During Summer time, personally, I drink tea at about the temperature of the room, but I don't drink too much of that either.

One of the best Summer drinks is vichy and milk. Milk which cannot be taken otherwise is easily digested when mixed with vichy, and this drink is both nutritious and cooling.

We French people believe in a little bit of wine with our dinner, but you find very little drunkenness in France because French people seldom drink to excess, taking their wine with their food. In Summer, when alcohol is always bad for one, syrups, such as grenadine, strawberry or raspberry, or a syrup made of almonds, are substituted for the wine and taken with the dinner or between meals. Of course these syrups, besides giving the water with which they are taken a delicious taste, are cooling to the blood and they are in every way harmless.

An excellent French drink for Summer-time, and what might be called a family drink, which is made of a little good red wine, say half a wineglassful, in a tumbler with a good dessert-spoonful of grenadine filled up with vichy or some good mineral water.

Other Good Drinks

Strawberry syrup, raspberry and syrups of other fruits can be made at home or obtained already bottled for about the same amount of money that it would cost to make them in small quantities. They should always be on hand in households where there are children and young people, and the use of these syrups with mineral waters helps greatly to dispel the desire for alcohol in Summer time.

Of course, I am not a teetotaller myself, but I should like to warn everyone who reads these lines against the use of mixed and sweetened alcoholic drinks in Summer. It is the sugar that does most of the damage, setting up an immediate and dangerous fermentation in the stomach.

The same danger, to a lesser extent, lies in sweetening lemonade too much. This, of course, has no detrimental effect on the brain, but it is very bad for the digestion and anyone who wants to take the trouble can accustom himself to taking lemonade first with less sugar, and finally with none at all, or just enough to counteract the acid of the lemon.

One of our best Summer drinks is a syrup called d'Orgeat, which is very popular as flavoring for mineral waters. Of course, these syrups are never served with ice water, and I believe the presence of ice which paralyzes the palate is one of the reasons why Americans insist on having food over flavored or seasoned and on putting more syrup, wine or liquor in their drinks than the inhabitants of other countries, who take just enough flavoring to change the taste of the spring water.

Married and Marred

A NEW maid from the country has been engaged, and her mistress, who lived in a fine town house, was showing Mary Ellen around the rooms, and instructing her in her duties.

At last they reached the best room, where the old art pictures were kept.

"Now," said the lady to the servant, as they paused before an extensive row of masculine portraits, "you must be very careful when dusting these; they are old masters."

Mary's jaw fell, and an awestruck look came over her face.

"Lor', mum!" she gasped. "Who'd ever 'ave thought that you'd been married all these times?"

Tactful and Certain

DOBSON was a confirmed borrower.

Worse than that, he had the nasty habit of not returning the articles he had borrowed. This much Hobson, who had unfortunately lent him an umbrella, found out, and he was lamenting the fact to a friend.

"How shall I get it back?" he complained.

"That's easy," replied his friend. "Just send Dobson this note." And he scribbled off the following:

"Dear Dobson: If you can possibly spare it, I should very much like to borrow that umbrella of mine for a few days. Can you oblige me?"

Fog Horn Tales

THE STRANGE STORY OF "DER VIFFENPOOF"

By HANK

"H—e—" blew the fog horn awakening the Captain from a doze as he find himself going into the face of the Pilot who had come quietly into the lighthouse a few moments before.

"Did you ever catch an electric eel?" asked the Pilot suddenly as the Captain began to light his pipe and fill the room with choking clouds of smoke.

"If der iss such a thing I neffer haf heardt of id," he replied, "but den I haf nod called der sea for many years und Edison has invented many things since den."

"Edison had nothing to do with this," said the Pilot, laughing, "the electric eel has always been in the sea, but I heard of a new way of catching them today and I thought you would like to hear about it."

Ho Was All Ears

"I am nodding but ears," said the Captain politely.

"Well, down in Bermuda where the electric eels are," began the Pilot, "they have rigged up a contrivance of wires and electric bells attached to a net. Whenever an electric eel gets into the net and touches the other fish the shock kills them, so the fisherman are always very anxious to get the eels out as quickly as possible.

"With this new contrivance attached to the net a system of contacts is arranged so that as soon as an electric eel gets inside it causes a bell to ring in the fisherman's house. Pretty good, isn't it?"

"As der German poet says," remarked the Captain, after gazing doubtfully at the pilot, "'All der vorld lofes a lier,' so I vill tell you von dot may teach you a lesson nod to try amateur fish stories on an old story teller like me. Dis story is about der viffenpoof."

"Whiffenpoof?" exclaimed the Pilot, "I never heard of one."

How to Catch One

"Needer dit I effer hear of der electric shock eel," said the Captain, "so ve are on terms equal. Howefer, der viffenpoof is a most peculiar animal. Id has no face, but it has a long neck like a vorm. Its legs are inside of its body, so dot instead of valking it kicks itself along ven it vants to go somevere. Also, id ies a very hard animal to catch.

"To catch a viffenpoof you must voirst take a boat mit oars in it und row to der middle in der lake. After dot you take a piece of viffenpoof cheese und hold it by a string after der hole. Preddy soon der viffenpoof he smell der cheese und come up. Of course he snap up her cheese and den you haf to be preddy quick or you lose him."

"What do you do?" asked the Pilot.

"Viffenpoofs are very sensitive," said the Captain, "so as soon as he has swallowed der cheese you laugh at him. Der longer you laugh der madder he gets until he begins to svell up like a balloon. Und den after you haf been laughing und he has been svelling he suddenly blows up, und"—

"H-o-o" blew the fog horn.

Kitchen Wrinkles

Pictures hung by a single wire have an annoying way of getting uneven, on account of the slipping of the wire on the picture hook. This can sometimes be avoided by first hanging the picture face to the wall and then turning it around. The single turn this makes in the wire near the hook prevents slipping.

Confectioners' sugar should be used in all uncooked frostings, as it is very much finer than the common powdered sugar and makes a smoother frosting. If common powdered sugar must be used, it should be sifted through a fine sieve several times before using.

To have your clothes clean and beautifully white have the washwoman place a slice of lemon with the rind cut off in the boiler. The result is surprising, and will not in any way hurt or injure the clothes.

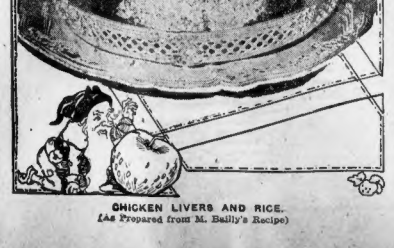
To make a tough steak tender rub it on both sides with vinegar and olive oil thoroughly mixed and allow it to stand for two hours before cooking.

Jam which has been laid aside long and has got hard and sugary and unfit for use can be made quite as good as when new if it is put into the oven for a little while till the sugar melts and then left to cool.

When washing the grater use a small stiff brush, passing diagonally up and down, pressing the bristles through the holes, and when necessary brush the under side. Rinse with hot water and drain.

Combs will soon warp and break if washed with water. They should be cleaned with a good, stiff, dry toothbrush or nailbrush.

In cleaning a frying-pan, do not scrape it with a knife, for afterwards the pan will be liable to "catch." Boil out the pan with hot soda water and, if necessary,



CHICKEN LIVERS AND RICE.
(As Prepared from M. Bailly's Recipe)

This is an excellent light Summer dish, easy to prepare. Take sufficient chicken livers, clean them, put them in a frying pan with butter and toss them until they begin to brown; drain them off, season with salt and pepper, place in another dish with a little thick stock made of veal or chicken. Have ready some rice, prepared as I have already described once before. The secret of making good rice is to wash it thoroughly, then spread it out on a towel or piece of linen, and dry it by rolling in linen or patting it down. Place a small onion chopped up fine and dipped in butter in the bottom of your saucepan, put your rice over that, with a pinch of salt or pepper, and moisten it with bouillon or soup stock, let it come to boil, then cover it and cook it slowly without stirring it. The rice will be done when it has absorbed all the stock or water. Add to it a good sized piece of butter mixed with a fork, place around the sides of a dish in the centre of which you pour the chicken livers.

"Now They Are Soft and Smooth"

"My hands were simply terrible! All red, rough and wrinkled.

"All because I used the wrong laundry soap.

"I certainly have learned the difference in soaps now. I won't use anything but 'Welcome.'

"There is just enough Borax used in Welcome Soap—more than in all other soaps made in New England put together. Borax softens the water, is a wonderful cleanser, and is splendid for the hands.

"I suppose, too, that's why my clothes look so white and beautiful. I didn't know what clothes whiteness was until I used 'Welcome.'

"I get my wash out earlier nowadays than I ever did before.

"Your grocer sells it, for twice as much 'Welcome' is used in New England as any other.

"Your hands will become white and soft. Your washing will be done better with less work. It costs but 5c. At your grocer's."

A Mysterious Disappearance

One of the Greatest Detective Stories Ever Written

By Gordon Holmes

TODAY'S INSTALMENT.

PART I.—(Continued.)

Copyright, 1913, by Edward J. Clode.

"TELL him what I say at once," said Mr. White gave him his best "accessory - after - the - crime" glance.

"I don't see why I should," snarled Smith, but the squabble ended when Bruce's voice was heard—

"Show him in, Smith, but admit nobody else."

With an air of armed neutrality Smith ushered the representative of Scotland Yard into the library.

"You're not looking very well, sir," said White, his round eyes fixed on Bruce with all their power.

"Was it to ask about my health that you came?"

"No, sir, not exactly. But I haven't seen you for quite a while, and as we are both interested in the same matter I thought I would look you up and compare notes."

Bruce was annoyed by the interruption. He wanted to think, not to be bothered by official theories. He looked hard at Mr. White, wondering whether he should tell him all he knew and wash his hands clear of the investigation in the future. But there was a second picture before his eyes. He saw Phyllis Browne's face, not as it was that day at the Tir aux Pigeons, but with the light of happiness in it, with the joyousness of reputed and undisturbed love, with the glow reflected from dancing waves, and the tremulous smile of innocent pleasure.

It was hard to believe that such a woman could place her heartfelt trust in a man who was possibly a cold-blooded murderer. Such a combination was unnatural and horrible. Already Bruce was beginning to doubt the evidence of his analytical senses.

Mr. White meanwhile flattered himself by the thought that the other was trying to read his thoughts by looking at him fixedly.

"I have been away from home," said Bruce at last. "I had occasion to go to the South of France."

"I thought so. I was sure of it. How do you manage always to get ahead of us." Mr. White was enthusiastic in his admiring divination.

"You have heard about Sydney H. Corbett?" said the barrister, still keeping that inscrutable, calculating grasp upon the policeman.

"Yes. I am on his track. We may be slow, but we are sure in Scotland Yard. May I ask what luck you have had, sir?"

Bruce's Resolve

"In what respect.

"As if you didn't go to Monte Carlo to find Corbett yourself! Really, Mr. Bruce, the scent is too hot this time. You might as well give a 'View hallos' if you have seen him."

"Seen Sydney H. Corbett, you mean?"

"That is the gentleman."

For an instant Measmore's future trembled in the balance. Bruce almost framed the words which would have led to his immediate arrest at the next port touched by the White Heather. But the memory of Phyllis Browne, of her agony, of the fearful scandal that must fly through society on the Riviera, restrained him. There was no hurry. He must have time to think.

"I certainly went to Monte Carlo to discover the identity of that interesting personage, but I came back. Mr. White, as wise as I went. The only trace I found of him was an undelivered letter awaiting him at the Hotel du Cercle."

"A letter! Wasn't he there?" Mr. White's face, notwithstanding its official decorum, betrayed its disappointment. This was an unlooked-for check.

"He had been there. Other letters came for him earlier, and he had received them."

"But the hotel people—"

"Did not know him. In fact, there cannot be the slightest doubt that Mr. Corbett concealed his identity at Monte Carlo under another name."

"It doesn't matter much," growled the detective. "We will nab him all the same, if he had fifty names."

"Possibly. But it is wonderful how a man may be under your very nose and yet you may miss him."

During the next few minutes neither man spoke. Bruce smiled cynically at the thought that he was actually shielding Lady Alice's probable slayer from the minions of the law. He marvelled at himself for his irresolution. Nevertheless, he would wait. Measmore could not escape him now. Perhaps the business might be managed without the dramatic features which would accompany an immediate arrest. And there were some things that required explanation. If his Monte Carlo acquaintance really killed Lady Dyke, then he was the strangest criminal whom Bruce had ever encountered during the course of his varied career.

The policeman misinterpreted his expression.

"You can't laugh at us this time, Mr. Bruce," he cried. "Scotland Yard and yourself evolved the same theory, eh? And we can't fly off to the South of France at readily as you."

"Your skill is profound, no doubt. Indeed, I wonder at it, considering the mysterious way in which the missing man left his address at the post office."

The other reddened. "That was simple enough, I know; but we were on his track before that."

"By watching me when I visited his sister?"

"You saw me outside the Jolliff Theatre, then?"

"Of course. What did you expect?"

Mr. White recovered his placidity. "There's no use quarrelling about it," he laughed. "I did get that wrinkle from you. But how on earth were we to know what to do, when there were seventy-one flats occupied by respectable people, and one closed for months, the caretaker told us."

Lived in America

"I hope you have ceased your surveillance so far as I am concerned.

"Honor bright, sir, I won't do it again. Besides, we must lay hands on Corbett sooner or later.

"What steps are you taking?"

"The Monte Carlo police are making inquiries. They have his description. It has also gone to America."

"Why America?"

"Because he spent some time there. He only returned from the States early last year. His sister has not seen him for years, and a rare old row they had when he turned up. He had not much money, so she helped him, and he settled down for a time in the same mansions as herself."

"Who told you all this?"

"Mrs. Hillmer, and a precious lot of trouble she gave us. She is a clever woman, that."

"It was rather too bad to pester her about it, poor lady."

"I only followed your lead, sir." This was so true that Claude changed the conversation.

"What sort of man is Corbett? Have you his description?"

"Yes. Here it is." Mr. White produced a copy of the Police Gazette, a publication never seen by the public, but of a large circulation among the police of the United Kingdom. The details were fairly accurate as to Measmore's personal appearance, but there was no photograph. Oddly enough, Bruce was pleased on noting this serious deficiency.

"You did not secure his picture?"

"No. Mrs. Hillmer declared that she had not a single photograph of her brother in her possession."

"Did she—tell you his real name?" the barrister had almost said, but he deflected the question. "Did she give you any hint as to a possible cause for this apparently unnecessary crime?"

"Not a word."

"Then you did not mention Lady Dyke to her?"

"No. Mr. Charles has always implored me to keep his wife's name out of my inquiries until it became absolutely impossible to conceal it in view of a public prosecution. He wants to know definitely when that times comes."

"Why?"

The detective did not reply for a moment. When he spoke he leaned forward and subdued his voice. "I am as sure as I am sitting here, sir, that Sir Charles will not live if any disgrace should come to be attached to his wife's memory."

"Do you mean that he will kill himself?"

"I do. He has changed a great deal since this affair happened. He is not the same man. He appears to be always moaning about her. And people say that they were not so devoted to one another when she was alive."

Again did the barrister switch off their talk from an unpleasant topic.

"This description of Corbett is not much use," he said. "It applies to every athletic young Englishman of good physique and gentlemanly appearance."

"Quite true. I don't depend on that for his arrest, but it will be valuable for identification. Blue eyes, light brown hair, fresh, clear complexion, well-modelled nose and chin." Some of these things can be changed by tricks, but not all. For instance, there would be no use in smoking a man with black eyes and irregular features."

"Smoking' him?"

Sure to Get Him

"Oh, that's our way of putting it. Following him, it means."

"Suppose the French police don't succeed in catching him?"

"We will get him at Raleigh Mansions. He is sure to think that Lady Dyke's fate has never been determined, and he will return when the inquiry has blown over, to all appearance."

"You have quite made up your mind, then, that Sydney H. Corbett is the murderer?"

"It looks uncommonly like it. At any rate, he knows something about it. If not, why did he bolt to France two days after the crime? Why has he concealed his identity? Why does he take pains to receive his correspondence in the manner he has adopted? And, by Jove! suppose he isn't in Monte Carlo at all, but in London all the time!"

The inspector glowed with his sudden inspiration, but Bruce kept him to the lower level of realities.

"Corbett is, or was, in Monte Carlo. Of that you may be sure. He, and none other, got the letters sent to the Hotel du Cercle. I cannot for the life of me imagine why he did not take the last one. But let us look at what we know. Lady Dyke, we will say, went to Corbett's chambers, secretly and of her own accord. That may be taken as fairly established. Thence there is a blank in our intelligence until she appears as a hardly recognizable corpse, stuffed by hands beneath an old drain pipe in the Thames at Putney. How do you fill up that gap Mr. White?"

"Simple enough. Corbett, or some other person, persuaded her to voluntarily accompany him to Putney, while she was killed there and not in London. It would be almost a matter of impossibility for any man to have conveyed her lifeless body from Raleigh Mansions to Putney without attracting notice. One man could not do it. Several might, but it is madness to imagine that a number of people would join together for the purpose of killing this poor lady."

"The seemingly impossible is often accomplished."

"Do you really believe, then, that she met her death in London?"

"I have quite an open mind on that question."

"You forget that she had resolved early that day to visit her sister at Richmond, and Putney is on the direct road. What more reasonable than to assume—"

"Beware of assumptions! You are assuming all the time that Corbett was a principle in her murder."

"Very well, Mr. Bruce. Then I ask you straight out if you don't agree with me?"

"I do not."

This declaration astounded the barrister himself. Often the mere utterance of one's thoughts is a surprise. Speech seems to stiffen the wavering outlines of reflection, and the new creation may differ essentially from its embryo. It was so with Bruce in this instance.

Ever since Mr. White's arrival had aroused him from the positive stupor caused by the stockbroker's unwitting revelation, Claude Bruce had been slowly but definitely deciding that Measmore did not kill Lady Dyke. He had seen him, unprepared, facing death as preferable to dishonor. At such moment's a man sent to jail bare. With the shadow of a crime upon his conscience Measmore's actions could not have been so genuine and straightforward as they undoubtedly were.

Measmore, of course, might in some way be bound up with the mystery surrounding Lady Dyke's movements. His very utterance in Bruce's room at the Hotel du Cercle implied as much. That was another matter. It would receive his (Bruce's) most earnest attention. But the major hypothesis, so quickly jumped at by the police, needed much more substantiation than it had yet obtained.

That it was possible was demonstrated by the barrister's readiness to adopt it at the outset. Even now that his impulse to fasten the crime on Measmore had weakened he wondered at his eagerness to defend him.

The detective was even more surprised.

"I don't see how you can take that view," he cried. "Corbett's behavior to say the least, unaccountable. If he is an innocent man, then he must be a foolish one, besides, why should he act so scarily he innocent? This is the first gleam of light we have had in a very dark business, and I mean to follow it up."

The vindictive emphasis of his tone showed that the detective was annoyed at the other's impassive attitude. He even went so far as to dimly evolve a theory that the barrister wished to throw him off Corbett's trail on account of his sympathy for Mrs. Hillmer.

"You are here, I suppose, to ask my advice in pursuance of our understanding that we are working together in the matter, as it were?" he said.

"Well, something of the kind, sir."

"Then I recommend that we see the inside of that house in Raleigh Mansions at the earliest moment."

"Do you mean by a search warrant."

"Certainly not. You will get the whole neighborhood to know of it? You have probably heard of locks being picked before now. You said I said some other must have a quiet look around the place without any one being the wiser."

Mr. White hesitated, but the prospect was attractive. "I think I can manage it," he said, smiling reflectively. "Will 6 o'clock this evening suit?"

"Admirably."

"Then I will call for you."

After a parting glance at Smith, who returned it, none in air, the inspector ran down stairs muttering. "Rout if I can understand Mr. Bruce. But this is a good move. We must learn something."

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

FIVE MORE ACCIDENTS ON "L" TROLLEY LINES

Dorchester, were hurried away in an automobile said to have belonged to the Elevated Company. They were treated at the office of Dr. S. F. Curran of No. 104 Norfolk street, Dorchester. Two of these were unconscious for some time and it was believed several had sustained internal injuries. The accident was due to inexperienced motormen.

A second accident in Dorchester resulted in injuries to Archy Wheaten, forty-six years old, of Pleasant street, Dorchester.

An accident occurred in Medford, the following being injured:

JOSEPH A. ALPERT of No. 86 Elm street, Chelsea.

PAVELE SAWISKY, aged thirty-five, of No. 182 Second street, Chelsea.

In an accident in Malden Joseph Alpert of Malden was hurt.

Elevated officials today declared that despite the unusual traffic, due to the large holiday crowds, the company gave practically normal service and that cars were run on almost the regular schedule.

$1,500 from Sale of Buttons.

According to a report made at the strike headquarters this noon, the striking car men collected $1,500 from sales of their buttons trading. We Walk for Justice," at the mass meeting on the Common. The strikers sold ten cents for each button and a number of their supporters insisted on paying more. In some instances a dollar was given.

Four donations ranging from twenty-five to one hundred dollars each reached the strikers from the car men of Lowell, Lawrence, Worcester and Holyoke. Assurances were also given the strike committee that an equal sum will be sent in by the street car men of these cities each week until the strike is won.

Twenty strikers left today for Chicago to collect money from labor organizations and others. They will also engage hurdy gurdies and play popular airs on street corners. There are fifty other on a similar mission in New York, Philadelphia and other cities. It is the intention of the strikers to send a delegation to San Francisco. The union officials expect to raise at least $20,000 a week in this manner.

No Strike in Pittsburgh.

Word was received at strike headquarters today from W. D. Mahon, international president, that since the recent Pittsburgh street railway officials had met the demands of the men and a strike was averted. An increase of from one-half to two cents an hour, with a standard wage rate of thirty cents an hour after four years' service and full recognition of the union were among the concessions granted. The company has given but twenty-six cents an hour after sixteen years of service hitherto.

Resolutions pertaining to the Elevated Company, drawn up by Henry Sterling, a member of the Legislative Committee of the State Federation of Labor, were adopted by the executive committee of the strikers. They will be taken by Mr. Sterling to the executive committee of the Central Labor Union tonight for similar indorsement, and will then be sent to every trade union in the State. The resolutions are:

LIDSTONE JURY CANNOT AGREE

The jury in the case of the $25,000 alienation suit brought by Mrs. Emma E. Lidstone of Hemlock road, Wellesley, against Woodbury Meyers of Wellesley, which has been on trial at Dedham for the past week, reported a disagreement today.

The case was given to the jury on Friday with instructions to return a sealed verdict today. The jury discussed the case for over six hours. It is expected that the case will be resolved at the next sitting of the court.

The trial attracted a great deal of attention, chiefly because of the testimony of Mrs. Lidstone who accused Mrs. Meyers, a wealthy Wellesley woman of stealing the affections of George W. Lidstone, her husband.

On the stand Mrs. Lidstone said her married life had been happy until her husband became chauffeur for Mr. Meyers. She said her husband began to stay away from home nights and seemed to lose his affection for her. She said that Mrs. Meyers, when her husband was ill in bed on one occasion, called up frequently on the telephone to inquire about his condition.

According to her own testimony, the wife became suspicious, and two years ago went to the Meyers home at Wellesley, where she watched the house for eleven hours, from 8 at night until 7 the next morning.

WOMAN GUILTY OF ARSON.

SACO, Me., June 17.—Cecelia Feldman, who came to this city from Chelsea, Mass., several months ago, was found guilty this afternoon of arson in setting fire to goods in her store. She was held for the Grand Jury.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS; LATEST FINANCIAL NEWS

Bunker Hill Day Celebration Hurts Trading in Stocks

By W. H. ROSS.

STATE STREET, June 17.—Closing—This being a local holiday there was not much attention paid to the stock market in Boston. Although there was exceedingly little business, the tone was quite firm.

Hancock was strongest, the belief obtaining that its shaft is encountered the main Quincy-Pewabic lode. Lake buying of this issue was significant. On the Curb, Houghton went up a full point on news that the west lode of the Superior had been cut in the miner's property.

A quarterly dividend of 50 cents has been declared on North Butte shares. Three months ago the dividend was 40 cents and six months ago it was 30.

Strength in United Fruit was attributed to extra dividend expectations. It closed 3¾ higher.

In late trading in New York the only feature of consequence was a net decline of 6¼ points in Ligget and Meyers, the first sale being made 10th afternoon.

New York Market Stagnates.

There was very little business on the New York Exchange today, most big interests paying scant attention to the market and most brokers showing more interest in the convention situation at Chicago than in securities trading. Conditions at the opening were about the same as on Saturday. The market had a firm tone and the price tendency was more upward than otherwise. Missouri Pacific attracted attention by going up. London selling caused weakness in Canadian Pacific. London bought Steel and Union Pacific. Trading was almost at a standstill by midday. One morning feature had been the demand for Wabash 4 per cent. bonds. It was said around noon that the issue was sold out. It is estimated that buying orders from London totaled 5,000 shares.

In the morning it was reported Ophirs was a prospect of getting the refinery labor trouble at Perth Amboy, and quotations for Amalgamated, Anaconda and American Smelting shares reflected a more cheerful sentiment. But strikers held a meeting and voted to hold out for a wage raise of twenty-five cents a day. The American Smelting & Refining Company had offered an advance of fifteen. The strikers at the Barber Asphalt Works had agreed to return to work today, but changed their minds and stayed out.

United States Rubber Company stockholders formally ratified today the increase in capitalization to $120,000,000 and when directors meet tomorrow a formal declaration of a common stock dividend of $5,000,000 is expected.

It is reported ther although Daniel G. Reid has booked passage upon the Lusitania, he will not leave to go to Europe for several weeks.

In London American stocks were quiet but firm at the close. In the copper metal market, spot and futures closed 10s. higher with sales of the former 400 and of the latter 1,000 tons.

Foreign Copper Stocks Decrease.

The expected decrease in foreign copper stocks was reported today in a cablegram from London. Within the first fifteen days in June English and French stocks decreased 955 tons, while supplies afloat decreased 995, making a total decrease in those countries' visible supply of 1,950 tons. The total visible supply for those countries on June 15 was about 42,650 tons. Estimated stocks in Hamburg and Rotterdam decreased, according to Lewis's nightly statistics, 546 tons. The total of all foreign stocks is estimated at 59,085 tons.

Rulings Affecting Boston.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has decided after long consideration that on all-rail and lake export shipments of grain the differential under New York should not exceed 1.5 cents per 100 pounds to Baltimore and 1 cent per 100 pounds to Philadelphia. As to all this traffic the export rates to Boston should not be lower than to New York. A decision issued in the matter of import rates in substance allows Philadelphia and Baltimore certain differentials under New York on import traffic, but it is held that the import rates from Boston should be the same as from New York.

Beef at Record Prices.

From Chicago advices it does not look much like a reduction in the cost of living when cattle sell there at the highest prices ever recorded in the stock yards. In fact buyers paid $8.50 for choice steers with the cost of meat to pay more for meat. Beef sold at $8 a hundredweight, as the same grade of cattle, first cattle, a year ago. The population of the country has increased 21 per cent., while the cattle receipts so far have fallen away 254,000 pounds. All available of feed have been bigger during the last Winter than previous Winters, and this also has added to the high price cattle are bringing.

West Gets Cement Trade.

It is said by New York dealers that existing freight rates will prevent cement producers in the East from benefiting by the action of the Canadian government in cutting in half the duty on Portland cement. Western manufacturers are better off, not only as to rates, but can get a higher price per barrel. On the day after the Canadian government announced the cut it was estimated that western Canada had placed orders through St. Paul for 1,000,000 barrels.

Financial News in Brief.

It is announced the Baltimore & Ohio's latest able returns to May assure a common dividend balance for the entire fiscal year equivalent to at least $9.50 per share of stock. In the 1911 fiscal year the dividend balance was equivalent to $8.70 a share.

The continuance of the 2 per cent. Ontario & Western dividend is discussed by Financier. Tower Western dividend is discussed by Financier. Tower & Hadley of New York, New York, New Haven & Hartford controls the Ontario & Western through ownership of $29,160,000 stock, an actual majority. The dividend policy of the Ontario is of course dictated by the former company. Should the Ontario pass its dividend, as most people seem to expect, the New Haven's loss in income would amount to $583,200 annually. As the New Haven will not earn its own dividend this fiscal year, approximately $2,000,000, this loss can hardly be afforded.

The Du Pont Powder Co., which, excepting for two years, has maintained dividends since 1904, can earn $14 a share on the 17 cents copper and at present is only earning $5. This leads to the belief that increased dividends are in prospect. Within a few days the Du Pont Powder Co. declared an extra dividend of $2 a share in addition to its regular $2.50 quarterly rate and the Ahmeek has increased rates from $4 to $6 a share.

During May Ray Consolidated production was approximately 3,150,000 pounds of copper and the tonnage handled during the month amounted to 128,300 tons. It is believed that by August the concentrator will be handling 5,000 tons a day.

At a regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Paul Revere Trust Company held at its banking rooms, No. 40 Hanover street, Friday, June 14, 1912, the following resignations were offered and accepted: Edward Dana, Samuel Francis S. Hallet, Edward J. Holker, Walter S. English, Robert B. Gardiner, Jr., William Hood, A. V. Lowell, William Minot, William M. Prest, Milton S. Thompson, Barnett Wendell, Jr., and Alexander Whiteside.

The Second National Bank now quarters at No. 111 Devonshire street, and was formerly located Directors and officers of the bank invited friends of the institution to visit the new banking rooms today and tomorrow between the hours of 10 and 2. This bank is one of Boston's best.

The June issue of the monthly circular published by Turner, Tucker & Co. of No. 24 Milk street features the relative merits of preferred stocks and (types) investment bonds.

Jas. L. Hughes & Co. believe that with a continuance of the present sugar market that net earnings for the fiscal year will show a substantial increase over the $15,000,000 earned on the $15,000,000 common stock in the last fiscal period. The California situation is the lesser area. The much improved from the drought or sane early Winter and the outlook is for a production this season of about 1,700,000 bags of sugar, or 5 per cent. in excess of the 1911 output.

A dispatch received from Houghton today says that Hancock shaft continues to show a good body of rock from the new lode and that there is no change as to the latter from the previous report.

It is telegraphed from Bisbee that Briggs shaft developments in the Calumet & Arizona continue to show 10 per cent copper.

ASSIGNMENT MADE BY N. Y. BROKER

NEW YORK, June 17.—Alfred Macey, who carries on business under the name of Macey Brothers, stock brokers, at No. 20 Broad street, has assigned for the benefit of creditors to Leland B. Garretson, an attorney at No. 54 Wall street.

Boston Elevated Fraternal Protective Association

This Association was formed to promote the continuance of the existing cordial relations between the employees and the company, and to protect the interests of both from outside interference

Boston, June, 13, 1912.

Gen. Wm. A. Bancroft, President,

Dear Sir:—

We, the undersigned, object to the constantly repeated statement that the Elevated employees are on a strike. On the contrary two-thirds of the men are loyally running their cars. It is absolutely untrue to say that the employees are on a strike because a small portion have suddenly quit their jobs. We have no trouble and never have had any in being recognized by the company, nor have we any complaint to make against the treatment we have received.

If the men who quit do not want to work, there should be nothing to compel them to. On the other hand, if we, the majority of your employees, want to continue to work without interference, we should be allowed to do so. If there is any right, it is the right to do what each one lawfully wants to without outside interference. That is all there is to it.

If those who left their positions do not want to work for the company let them keep away. We do want to work for the company and we want to be allowed to do so peacefully.

We earnestly request that you give this the widest publicity.

BOSTON ELEVATED RAILWAY CO.
PRESIDENT'S OFFICE
101 Milk St.

Boston, Mass., June 14, 1912.

To the President and Members of the Boston Elevated Fraternal Protective Association,

Dear Sirs:

We have received your letter of the 13th.

We fully agree with you as to what you say about the right to work without molestation or outside interference of any kind. The Public Authorities will give you full protection in the future, as in the past, in the exercise of that right.

We desire to state that our rolls show that the number of men who remained in the employ of the Company agree with those mentioned by you.

Your communication requests that we give it wide publicity, and we are accordingly causing the same to be published in the press.

BOSTON ELEVATED RAILWAY COMPANY,
By Wm. A. Bancroft, President.

Helen Keller Plans to Lecture in Public

The action of Mayor Lunn, the Socialist Mayor of Schenectady, N. Y., in reserving a position on his personality created Board of Public Welfare for Miss Helen Keller has aroused deep interest in Boston. Miss Keller is expected to take up a permanent residence in that city in the Fall with her lifelong teacher, companion and friend, Mrs. John Macey, wife of the private secretary to Mayor Lunn. They are now residing at Wrentham, the Macey home.

"Miss Keller's opinions would be extremely valuable to the board," says Mayor Lunn. "The board has to do mainly with intimate life of the people, and I think Miss Keller is specially fitted, and I also should devote her life to just this kind of work.

That Miss Keller is not yet satisfied with her wonderful achievements, but hopes to become a public speaker is the declaration of Mr. Macey. If experiments being made by Dr. Charles A. White of the New England Conservatory of Music are successful, Miss Keller's voice, now thin and hardly audible in a large room, will be refined so that she can deliver lectures from public platforms.

"Dr. White visits Miss Keller every week," explained Mr. Macey. "And when the conservatory closes for the Summer he will devote all his time to her. If he works out all right she will not have to stay in Schenectady; she will go all about, delivering her lectures as socialism."

AMERICAN PASTOR KILLED IN LONDON

LONDON, June 17.—The Rev. J. S. Weld, an American clergyman, was run over and killed by a motor bus this morning in Tockmorton street, West End thoroughfare. He had just left his hotel for a stroll. Mrs. Weld, who had gone to her bankers, learned of the tragedy only on her return to the hotel.

Advice to Married Women and Some Answers the Women Might Give

It Is Easy to Advise and Criticise. But There Are Usually Two Sides to Criticism. And Many Sides to the Difficult Life of the Average Wife

Copyright, 1912, by American Journal-Examiner

The Rev. Mr. Bustard, who looks after Mr. John D. Rockefeller's spiritual welfare when he happens to be in Cleveland, has given advice to wives.

He told his congregation to take his "ten don'ts for wives" and put them up on the mirror frame where the wife would always see them.

On behalf of the wives we beg to say, first, that if the ten don'ts were put in the mirror, the husband would be apt to see them at least as often as the wife. It is an old theory and foolish that the mirror reflects a woman more often than a man. The opposite is probably true.

In many homes, if you put the ten don't's for wives in the mirror, the wife would have very little opportunity of seeing these don'ts. She would be more apt to see them if you pasted them up above the cook-stove, or over the washtub, or above the baby's crib, or over the coal bin.

Here are some of the reverend gentleman's don'ts:

Don't marry a man for a living, but [is better than money without man-for love. Manhood without money [hood.

ANSWER—The average woman is only too eager NOT TO MARRY FOR A LIVING. Every woman on earth wants to marry for love. No woman would marry for money and turn aside from real affection if she had her choice. The trouble is that we have developed a civilization which teaches little girls from their babyhood that they MUST MARRY FOR A LIVING, that marrying is the only career, the only BUSINESS opportunity open to them.

Civilization has taught its daughters that they can only make a living by marrying. And civilization promptly puts at work at typewriters and in factories and elsewhere ninety-nine one-hundredths of the girls that don't get married. Even a reverend clergyman might find himself marrying for a living if the alternative compelled him to work at starvation wages, paid on account of his sex less than his services were worth. There will be no trouble about women "marrying for a living" if reverend gentlemen and others will reorganize society so that women may have some better career.

A wife in a hobble skirt and a hus- [out of a kitchen window with a spoon band with patched trousers make a [than a man can put into the cellar poor pair. A woman can throw more [with a shovel.

This sounds well enough and familiar enough. But it really is not convincing. If one must wear the patched trousers and the other a well-made costume—certainly it is better for the man to wear the patches. Man has been bragging for generations about his generosity, and rightly that he does for women. A good deal of the time he has been like the rooster that cackles, scratches and looks very unselfish when he finds a worm, and then, just as the hens rush up to him, SWALLOWS THE WORM WITH A VIRTUOUS AIR. The trouble in this world is not that woman wears the fancy hobble skirt and man the patched trousers. And the trouble is not that women throw more out of the kitchen window with a spoon that a man can put into the cellar with a shovel.

The trouble is that the average man working for a living spends on his own selfish luxuries too much of the money that his wife and children need. The trouble is that among the families that earn small or moderate incomes the husband spends more for cigars and luncheons downtown, and visits at drinking resorts on the way uptown and downtown, than the mother can spend for her children.

Don't think that the way to run a [women on how to bring up children house is to run away from it. It is [while you are neglecting your own.
wrong to go around lecturing other

Very good, sound advice for everybody—from wives to clergymen. The wife might turn and say to the clergyman, "Very good, indeed; try it yourself." For wives are no worse than clergymen or bankers or peddlers when it comes to neglecting their own business and attending to other people's business. We are all much alike—except that wives leading very dull lives, having to endure a great deal more of the house than anybody could reasonably be expected to stand, are less blamable than others if they try to get away for a change.

Don't nag. The saloonkeeper is al- [with a smile.
ways glad to welcome your husband

This also sounds well. But we can assure the reverend gentleman —and as it may seem—that the wife who nags, that is to say, the wife who has the courage to assert her rights and the rights of her children, is more apt to keep her husband away from the saloon than the other kind of wife.

If wives nag, it is BECAUSE HUSBANDS HAVE COMPELLED THEM TO DO IT. Nagging on the part of a wife is no more than urging generosity when the moment comes "to let your light shine" and the collection box goes around. The clergyman who doesn't nag a certain kind of congregation when collection time comes hasn't a prosperous church. And the wife who doesn't nag a certain kind of husband is apt not to have prosperous children.

Don't try to get more out of a look- [ture's sunshine is better for woman's ing glass than you put into it. Na- [beauty than man's powder and paints.

Very good and true. What is needed, however, is a system of society that will enable women to get "nature's sunshine" and happiness and the beauty that comes from cheerfulness and freedom from worry.

If women paint and powder, there are two reason for it. First, the stupidity of man, who admires what is artificial.

And, second, the dulness of life and the falseness of life which make women pale, thin and old before their time.

Don't forget that home is a woman's field, or a McKinley is to be the kingdom, where she reigns as queen, [mother of a prince.
To be the mother of a Lincoln, a Gar-

Good advice. Home ought to be a woman's kingdom. But you can't blame a queen for getting out of a kingdom that isn't worth having—a kingdom desolate, dull and tiresome.

If the man would make the home his resort, his club, HIS kingdom; if he would keep the promises that he made when he married; if he would show in the tired and often discouraged wife at home the same interest, politeness and deference that he shows to the first silly gadabout to whom he happens to be introduced, the home would be a kingdom worth while for the wife—and she'd be glad to stay in it and work in it.

It is quite true that to be the mother of a Lincoln is to be the mother of a prince—or rather the mother of a man worth many dozens of princes. But while the mother probably contributes nine-tenths of the son, the husband must at least contribute ONE-tenth. And we beg to inform the Reverend Mr. Bustard and all husbands that the one thing which makes for greatness in a son IS THE MOTHER'S AFFECTION, ADMIRATION AND REVERENCE FOR THE HUSBAND.

And Lincoln was great in spirit, in body and in accomplishment because his own mother truly loved the husband with whom she shared her lot, the father of the boy born in the hut of one room with a dirt floor. Lincoln's power was the reflection of the mother's love for Lincoln's father—you may be sure of that.

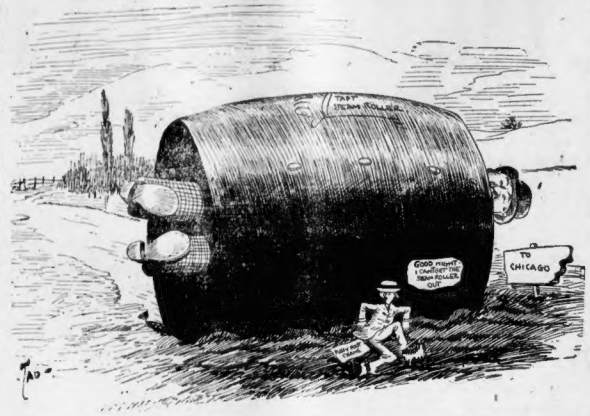
And Lincoln's power also was the reflection of another woman's affection and devotion—the stepmother who cared for him, educated him and gave him opportunity.

The wives of the world are only too anxious to make their homes their kingdoms, and to find their glory in their children.

But first let the husbands do THEIR part, let them really concentrate their hours, their earnings, their money and their interest in the home. The rest will be easy.

Remember that women are, morally and spiritually at least, one thousand per cent. superior to men. That is why the human race improves.

Stuck!



Desperate Desmond Taft

That gallant Claude Eclaire Roosevelt espouses the cause of Woman Suffrage.

1—Rosamond Nomination risks a dash on Dark Horse rather than remain in the power of Desmond Taft, motorman of the Steam Roller.

2—Claude Eclaire Roosevelt is always gallant. How often has he told the mother of six that she is the best citizen. And now he plans to recapture Rosamond Nomination by appearing as a suffragette. Ah, those dear voteresses in California and other States!

3—"I will help you, little girl," says Claude Roosevelt. "She's my pal," thinks Rosamond Nomination.

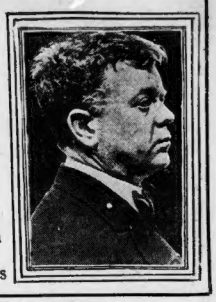
4—Verbal brickbats! "You're a this!" "You're a that!" "You're a which!" "You're a what!" No wonder Rosamond hotfoots it.

5—Rosamond Nomination's flight through the political field is full of shocks and shivers. What a collection of brigands, bribers, strong-arm men, thieves, pillagers and gag-rulers! It's awful even to read about them.

6—Everybody's chasing Rosamond Nomination. She's all up in the air. Great doings ahead—don't miss 'em.

The Education of the Voter

No. 1—Read Your Policy



It Is the Great Document Known as the Constitution of the United States

By THOMAS TAPPER

I.

WHEN you want to take out life insurance you pick out, if you are wise, a solid company. Then you go to the company's physician for examination. If he finds you a good risk, you pay your money and get the policy.

The one thing the company wants you to do is expressed in these words:

READ YOUR POLICY!

Why should you bother to read a policy when the agent has told you the whole story?

The answer is: While he has told you the whole story, he knows, and the company knows, that you have not learned the whole story.

There is so much to it, so many new words, so many conditions, that it will take you quite a while to get the whole matter into your head.

You Read the Policy to Learn Your Rights and Privileges

You read the policy then to know your rights and privileges, to understand your obligation, to make the proper demands, and no others, on the company.

If you go at it in this way you get an understanding of the whole matter. That is what the company wants you to get. They do not want you to misunderstand the agreement you have entered into. So they say to you:

READ YOUR POLICY!

II.

WHEN you become a voter in the United States, either by right of birth or naturalization, having passed the required examination, you get a policy called a franchise.

This is, in brief, the right and privilege to vote.

Like life insurance, it carries with it not only rights and privileges, but obligations.

By fully understanding these rights, privileges and obligations you can make proper demands, and no others, upon the company.

The company in this case is the United States of America.

This company, like the one that issues insurance, has a document in which its conditions for doing business are clearly set forth. This document was drawn up in the year 1787, and has been in successful operation ever since.

Certain new conditions arising, it has been modified or amended, and as it stands today it is the substantial statement of agreement on which citizenship, with its rights, privileges and obligations rests. The name of this great document is The Constitution of the United States.

Its purpose is to insure to you those conditions of life, liberty and happiness that are necessary for a safe and prosperous existence.

When the government accepts you as a voter, places the ballot in your hands and tells you that you can cast it as your judgment advises, it depends on your knowing what you are doing.

To know what you are doing, follow the rule of the insurance company:

READ YOUR POLICY!

III.

THE Constitution of the United States was ratified on the 17th day of September, 1787, George Washington signing it as President and Deputy from Virginia.

One of the 38 Signatures Is That of Benjamin Franklin

Among the other thirty-eight signatures stands that of Benjamin Franklin—born so poor a boy that he tramped the city of Philadelphia with a small loaf of bread under each arm and his laundry in his pockets.

His rise from that humble beginning to the dignity of signing so great a document is recognized now, as it was then, as one of the essential privileges to be extended and preserved to every American.

The Constitution does not guarantee that every poor man can advance to fame and a place of great responsibility.

But it guarantees to put no let or hindrance in his way IF HE WANTS TO TRY FOR FAME AND A GREAT PLACE.

The Constitution has been in operation 125 years next September. It was drawn up with a degree of wisdom and foresight that has often been marvelled at. But, in the course of time, new conditions arose, just as they are arising today.

Some of these conditions were of such importance that they had to be recognized in the Constitution itself. Hence the amendments, fifteen in number.

While the Constitution is a national document fundamental to all our life and activity as a people, it is also an individual document in the sense that it presents a body of doctrine that every voter should know.

It is your starting point as an American.

If it ever again happens that an amendment is proposed to the Constitution, you must be able to judge intelligently of its place and purpose.

When that time comes the daily papers will tell you all about it, but they will not print the whole Constitution.

Not Difficult to Get Hold of a Copy of the Constitution

And this assumption on their part is akin to that of the insurance company, which elects you to the benefits of protection, telling you at the same time that it is necessary to read your policy.

You will find the Constitution printed in every school history. There are several millions of copies of these scattered over the United States, and it should be no trouble for you to get hold of one long enough to read the policy of the country that protects us.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

WOULD HAVE MOTORMEN LICENSED

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—Should there not be a law forbidding the Boston Elevated Railway Company employing people as motormen who do not know their business? If a motorman had to be licensed by the city or State, the same as a chauffeur, surely so many accidents would not have happened during the present strike, as he would have to prove his efficiency before he could obtain a license to run a car.

It is true that many citizens would be inconvenienced if the Boston Elevated were not able to run sufficient cars, but is it not better to be inconvenienced than to be in constant danger of being sent to the hospital with broken bones? Yours very [illegible]

CONGRATULATES AMERICAN ON GRAND TRUNK VICTORY

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—We wish to congratulate the Boston AMERICAN for bringing the Grand Trunk road to Boston, for we are in a position to know the great benefits Boston will derive from competition made possible by the Grand Trunk system.

They have always stood for differential and the lowest rates. The railroad employes will be greatly benefited, who are at present slaves to a monopoly.

Without the persistent effort of your paper this would have been impossible, and should reflect great credit upon your publication. Most sincerely, [illegible]
